PRAIRIES HELD IN ICY GRIP

Flood Wrecks Australia Town

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — A wall of water roaring down the flooded Macquarie river tonight was feared to have wiped out the town of Warren in New South Wales and known to have killed 38 people.

Last reports said most of the 1,746 people of Warren, about 360 miles northwest of Sydney, were clinging to their rooftops in the path of the swirling waters.

Apart from the 38 known dead in the floods ravaging a 30,000-square-mile area of New South Wales, 32 people are missing and more than 25,000 homeless.

The casualties at Warren are not known. The mayor radioed the last message heard from the isolated town, appealing for sandbags and calling for all able men to man the levees. Three air force transports took off with empty sandbags.

PEACE FOR SECOND PEAK

In the stricken Hunter river area, the town of Maitland braced itself to meet a second flood peak after a two-day battle against invading waters.

EDMONTON (CP) — Arctic-style weather loitered over the Prairie today, providing winter's coldest siege. Warmest temperature north of Calgary was 16 below at Whitehorse in the Yukon.

At dawn, it was 33 below at Saskatoon, Prince Albert and Yellowknife. N. W. T., and the weather office said readings would drop another two or three degrees before noon.

A light snowstorm in southern Alberta held the mercury up to -17 at Lethbridge and -12 at Medicine Hat—usually the warmest spots in the Prairie district—but elsewhere it dipped under the 20-below mark.

Lowest readings were 41 below at Watson Lake, in the southern Yukon and 51 below at Whitecourt in northern Alberta. High winds were reported blowing snow into near-

Surplus On Canada's Budget Dips More Than 50 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) — The surplus on Canada's budget for the first 10 months of the current fiscal year is less than half that for the same period in the last fiscal year.

The finance department has explained that it boosted the treasury's January surplus to an unusually high $77,474,000 by transferring into its coffers a month early the Bank of Canada's annual profits, this year $41,400,000.

Doctor Testifies In Navy Hearing

HALIFAX (CP) — Naval doctors took the stand as prosecution witnesses today as the court martial of a naval rating went into its second day.

AB John L. MacDonald, of Beaverton, Ont., faces four charges arising out of a Jan. 21 methyl-alcohol binge aboard the carrier Magnificent.

The court today heard arguments on whether Surgeon Lt. Cmdr. Donald Brooks can be asked to tell what was said in an interview with MacDonald the day before his discharge from hospital.

The defence argued that anything that passed between the doctor and his patient was subject to medical privilege.

Surgeon Lieut. Norman Bradford, medical officer of the Magnificent, said he saw MacDonald in the carrier's sick bay Jan. 22, the morning following the party.

He said MacDonald was taken to the sick bay after being found wandering around the mess deck stark naked and not very sensible.

Hostess of Cafe, Stabbing Victim

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A Windsor man who police said admitted fatally stabbing a restaurant-bar hostess today was charged with murder and remanded to March 1.

Vitalij Lukasev, 25, worked at the restaurant as a part-time waiter. He surrendered to police a few minutes after the stabbing.

The hostess, Mrs. Betty Lesperance, 33, was stabbed while she stood in the doorway of the restaurant's office, talking with another employee. She was the mother of three children.

According to police, the waiter entered the police station and said: "I've just killed a woman. I stabbed her with my knife, and she died."

Margaret Nears End Of Her 'Suntan Tour'

NASSAU, Bahamas (Reuters) — Princess Margaret arrived here today on the last lap of a West Indian tour.

Her four-day visit will end with a month's triumphant journey among the Caribbean islands.

Ship's sirens and bells mingled in welcome as the royal yacht Britannia steamed into the harbor and dropped anchor.

In the crowd lining the waterfront was Vancouver-born actress Vivian De Carlo, who is making a picture on the island.

The many islands in the Bahamas group have sent representatives—from justices of the peace to schoolchildren—to swell the numbers of the official welcome.

But a big fight has marred the official doings. Next Thursday, the day after she flies to London, the House of Assembly will debate a protest that no elected members of the House have been invited to a state dinner which she attends Monday night.

The governor, the Earl of Ranelagh, confirmed that the only members of the House present would be those who were chairmen of boards—who are appointed by him.

He explained that the difficulty has been that accommodation for entertaining is limited. "I have tried in two functions at Government House—a cocktail party and a banquet—to spread the net as wide as I can."

He added that all the members would attend the cocktail party.

British Military Chiefs Ready For Hot Debate In Parliament

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's military chiefs gave a final check today to facts and figures of their new defence setup in preparation for anticipated fireworks at a two-day parliamentary debate beginning Tuesday.

Sir Winston Churchill will be the chief government speaker during talks on the armed services.

The prime minister will lead the government's defence against a Labour party censure motion charged with the administration with "grave and admitted deficiencies" in weapons, despite a huge defence budget over the last three years.

TOPPED BY H-BOMBS

Britain's new military setup will be topped by a British developed and produced hydrogen bomb.

The news that Britain is able to make thermonuclear weapons emerged from the government's annual reports on naval, military and air preparedness, which fail these other developments:

1. The navy will build "hydrogen gas" cruisers armed with guided weapons "of great lethality" for fighting off air attacks; simultaneously, development is going ahead on a new fighter claimed to be the fastest carrier-borne aircraft in the world.
2. Britain's latest fighter planes are being fitted with "the most destructive gun armament in the world" can deliver 10 times as much high explosive per second as the guns of Russia's famed MIG.

The next step, according to published government reports in the last week, is to introduce air-to-

Red Cross Meet Talks Extension

REGINA (CP) — Resolutions that the Red Cross extend home nursing services in Saskatchewan and continue present veterans services were passed by delegates to the provincial Red Cross convention here Friday.

It also was resolved by the convention that members of the executive board of the Saskatchewan organization be assigned a personal job in the field. Another resolution was that annual reports of the committee be presented in such a manner that the meeting have an opportunity to consider each report.

'COME AND GET ME' THEY CHALLENGE

By JOE MACSWEEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — A claim was staked in Canada's north today by a make-believe invader who challenged the French-Canadian accent: "Come and get me."

It was the beginning of the joint army-RCMP exercise, Bulldog III, begun late Friday when the Royal 22nd Regiment landed 180 men at the nearby airport. Capt. Charlie Grenier, interviewed near his now-covered command post in weather nearly 40 degrees below zero, said his side of the operation was going fine.

Capt. Grenier, who said with a smile that he and his Van Doos were walking around Quebec City without greatcoats a few days ago, added: "We're sure we can hold our positions for at least 10 days. We're not expecting interference from anyone but local forces just now."

On the other side of the picture, a militia unit known as Canadian Rangers, comprising 1200 men, woodsmen and farmers, and a reserve unit of engineers, "attacked" the invading forces shortly after the landing and inflicted "casualties" which Grenier admitted to be heavy—at two points at the perimeter of the airport.

READY TO ATTACK

Meanwhile, at the advance base of the friendly forces in Edmonton, members of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry were set for a parachute counter-attack.

They were expected to reach here from Edmonton, 600 miles to the south, about noon MST. As he spoke, Capt. Grenier's men were busily gathering supplies from the airport left there when the Van Doos went into action immediately after their arrival.

Capt. Grenier's men were moving away from the airport, considered a potential refuelling base for an enemy's long-range bombers, and heading for a fuel dump on nearby Joffile Island. They were probing the outskirts of Yellowknife itself with the purpose of theoretically seizing food supplies.

The RCAF, meanwhile had been ordered to destroy the Joffile fuel dump rather than lose it. Air force craft also were detailed for photo reconnaissance.

During the night, the invaders snatched some rest in sleeping bags and hastily pitched tents. For added protection, they had Arctic survival equipment which is being tested in the exercise.

Bull Dog III is Canada's second sub-Arctic war games of the winter, the first being held in northern Manitoba in December.

Northern Rescue Flight Succeeds

Nationalists Fleeing Red Chinese Claim

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters) — A day after forcing the Nationalists to "flee in a hurry," the Nationalist government in Formosa announced Friday it had evacuated Nanchishan without a clash.

The Communist broadcast boasted that the "liberation" of Nanchishan provided "more favorable conditions" for the invasion of Formosa itself.

The Reds gave this version of what the Nationalists claimed was an incidentless evacuation.

"Aircraft of the Chinese People's Liberation Army attacked the surrounded bandit troops on the main Nanchishan island. This has compelled the Chiang troops to flee the islands in a hurry."

Before their escape, the Kuomintang bandit troops plundered the population of the islands and carried out savage destruction.

"They carried off 2,000 inhabitants on the islands at bayonet point."

Nanchishan, 23 miles off the Chinese mainland, was the northern anchor of Chiang Kai-shek's chain of offshore island outposts. The Nationalists decided to abandon the three-square mile island because of U. S. refusal to aid in its defence.

All Occupants Of Plane Okay

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
WINNIPEG (CP) — Four of the seven persons, marooned beside a downed RCMP plane in the northern Canadian wilderness since last Tuesday, reached safety today aboard a ski-equipped rescue plane and all were reported in good condition.

An RCAF official here said three members of the RCMP who chose to remain with the plane could have been brought out at the same time. The fact they remained indicated they had not suffered any ill effects from the ordeal.

They were stranded in a forsaken land of snow, frozen lakes and house-size boulders while the wind whipped drifts around their tiny tent and the temperature dipped to 49 below zero.

Their plane was forced down on Tuesday on a 290-mile flight from Churchill, Man., to Ennada Lake. Two navy men on a search plane spotted the craft Thursday but before a rescue plane could pick up the occupants they disappeared again behind a veil of ice crystals and drifting snow.

Flt. Lt. C. W. (Bounce) Weir, veteran bush flier, flew to Ennada lake Friday. Early today he took off again, and at 10:38 a.m. CST radioed that he had again located the plane and was landing beside it.

Within a few minutes he took off again, carrying four of the plane's occupants to Ennada lake, a trading outpost and Eskimo settlement.

A radio report on arrival there said all four were "OK."

They are: James Houston of Toronto, director of handicrafts for the government; Sydney J. Sillett of Vancouver, department of transport employee; an Eskimo woman named Attalook, and her four-year-old child. Remaining with the plane were Sgt. A. N. Beaumont of Winnipeg, the pilot; Cpl. R. L. Fletcher of Holmfeld, Man., co-pilot; and Special Constable G. E. Bartlett of Churchill, engineer.

DELIVERED

Weir delivered oil and gasoline to the plane before making the return flight to Ennada lake. He planned to return later to help the RCMP fliers start their stranded. Other and resume the trip to Ennada lake.

National Energy Policy Urged To Guard Canada Resources

OTTAWA (CP) — A national energy policy to safeguard Canada's use of her own resources was recommended Friday night by a front-bench Progressive Conservative.

Howard Green, Vancouver, Quebec, said in the Commons that a "national energy board" should be set up to regulate export of power and import of natural gas. Trade Minister Howe, sponsor of the bill, said federal policies on export of natural gas, oil and electricity remain largely unchanged in the new measure.

The bill later was given second reading—approval in principle.

Mr. Green said energy resources are among Canada's leading assets. If properly developed they could lead Canada to a top place among nations of the world.

He said it is vital to this country that its resources be developed as United States resources diminish.

Carl O. Nickle (PC—Calgary South) said the bill gives no assurance Canada will be able to export gas to the U.S. but it is an improvement over past legislation which gave the U.S. as much chance as a snowball in hell of cracking the U.S. gas market.

He said he is confident Canada will capture U.S. gas markets within a year or two.

Restrictions on importation of U.S. gas into eastern Canada should be such that, should the U.S. suppliers cut off the supply, eastern consumers will not find their gas bill "backed up" by western gas sources.

Mr. Nickle, a Calgary publisher of oil and gas news who has advocated sale of gas and oil to the U.S., said federal policy should not be based on fear of gas shortages in Canada. The problem was to find markets for fast-growing gas reserves.

Gas was being discovered so quickly in the west that, in the two years it would take to build pipelines now proposed to the west coast and to central Canada, exploration might well find enough new gas reserves to serve the lives for 20 years.

Victory Seen By Adenauer

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD
BONN (AP) — Opposition Socialists rallied their forces today for a last-ditch—but apparently hopeless—struggle to block the Paris treaties rearming West Germany.

As the parliamentary battle over ratification entered its third day, clashing legislators faced the prospect of an all-night session before reaching a vote. All hope for French approval of German sovereignty and rearmament rested on the outcome.

Despite the fierceness of the fight, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer seemed certain of victory in his drive to push the pact through the West German parliament.

The Socialists virtually conceded defeat in advance by summoning party chiefs to a conference immediately after the close of debate to consider the new political situation.

There was no clear indication when the final vote might come. Using tactics of long speeches and frequent interruptions, the opponents of the pact have delayed the proceedings so much that today's schedule showed a big backlog of speakers.

Busmen Strike On Race Issue

WEST BROMWICH, Eng. (CP) — Some 450 West Bromwich bus workers went on strike today for the second Saturday in a row in protest against the employment of an East Indian as a trainee conductor.

Busmen picketed a garage and city boundaries in the face of official threats of disciplinary action if they kept up their one-day-a-week strike campaign against use of colored labor.

Only three buses, which left the garage under police escort, were running in this town of 67,000 this afternoon. Picketed turned back another bus at the garage, and buses taking other towns with West Bromwich refused to cross picket lines at the city boundaries.

Thieves Take Cash, Big Safe

While Prince Albert shivered in 34 below zero, thieves kept warm early Saturday morning on a break-in job. They escaped with a safe containing $365 in cash and 32 blank money order forms.

City police said entry was gained into the government liquor board beer storage warehouse at Fifteenth street and Second avenue west between 4:15 and 7:40 a.m.

Thieves went away with a 400-pound safe after breaking into the front door. It was not known if any other goods were taken.

City police are continuing their investigation.

Melfort Fire Guts Home

Melfort (Special) — Five families were left homeless here Saturday morning when fire gutted one suite and caused heavy damage to others in the 22-suite Veterans' Apartments building.

Melfort fire brigade was called at 10:15 a.m. and soon had the blaze under control. The entire north wing was damaged in the blaze. Smoke and water damage was reported to be extensive.

Residents of the building are employees of the new provincial nursing home and J. R. Fernet, superintendent of the home, said accommodation had been arranged for the affected families in the town and district.

No estimate of damage has been made and cause of the fire is undetermined.

Rich Potash Find In Wilkie Area

WILKIE, Sask. (CP) — Mayor W. J. Clendinning said Friday a Calgary company has made a "very significant" find of potash on a well site four miles north of Wilkie.

The mayor said the strike, which he understood was possibly the greatest yet made in Saskatchewan, was reported to have disclosed a bed of potash about 100 feet thick at a depth of 3,600 feet. Potash is used in the manufacture of fertilizers and also in the production of nitrates for explosives.

Big Sewer Job For Alta. Capital

EDMONTON (CP) — Contractors are preparing to bid on Edmonton's largest sewer job since 1912—a 2½-mile underground line to span the North Saskatchewan river and connect with a proposed $6,000,000 treatment plant.

Construction of the $1,000,000 sewer will provide little for sidewalk superintendents. All they will see is the sinking of shafts from the surface to the sewer level. For about 8,000 feet of its 14,000-foot length, the sewer will be tunnelled up to 120 feet underground.

The new line will be 78 inches in diameter—enough to provide for a city of twice Edmonton's present population of nearly 60,000.

City council has decided to spend $4,000,000 this year towards construction of a primary treatment plant, ordered by the Alberta government to offset river pollution.

Next year, council will provide another $2,000,000 for secondary treatment.

Tenders for the sewer will close March 18. Target for completion of the 1955 phase of the scheme is Nov. 30.

WORLD RECORD IS AIM

Ivory Marathon

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul Gingras, 29-year-old Montreal hall porter, established a record for continuous playing, today entered his second 12-hour stint at the key-board.

Dr. R. T. Wilson, attending physician, said Friday a Calgary company has made a "very significant" find of potash on a well site four miles north of Wilkie.

The mayor said the strike, which he understood was possibly the greatest yet made in Saskatchewan, was reported to have disclosed a bed of potash about 100 feet thick at a depth of 3,600 feet. Potash is used in the manufacture of fertilizers and also in the production of nitrates for explosives.

Gingras is being fed a diet of broth, water and milk. Every half hour he gets a rubdown and his arm muscles are massaged and he is sponged periodically with cold water by his helpers.

Spectators at HMCS Donnacona, the naval depot where Gingras is playing, are being asked to contribute to the March of Dimes. Attendance slackened off this morning but throughout most of the night there was a mattering of couples who dropped by to dance to the music.

Egypt Seeks To Oust Iraq From League

CAIRO, Egypt (Reuters)—Egypt Friday night moved to expel Iraq from the seven-nation Arab League to "punish" her for signing a defence pact Thursday with Turkey.

An Egyptian government spokesman said his country will convene the Arab League nations soon to press for Iraq's expulsion. The Egyptian government spokesman said his country will renounce its obligations to Iraq under the Arab League treaty, and immediately offer the Arab nations a defence pact against Israel. He said Egypt will disassociate itself from Iraq, so as not to be drawn into an indirect alliance with the west—Turkey belongs to the 14-nation Atlantic pact—or into indirect co-operation with Israel.

Nipawin Organizes Cumberland Member Decries Lack of Denare Beach Road

REGIONAL (CP)—A CCF backbencher who has an acute interest in development of Saskatchewan's natural resources took the government to task Friday on its mining road policy.

Bill Berezowsky (CCF—Cumberland) said in the legislature that he can see no reason why mining companies should have to build roads which are used by the general public. He said he was "ashamed to say" the government had taken $12,000,000 in revenue from the Flin Flon mining area but still had not built a good road to Denare beach in the same district.

The government has pledged itself to pay one-third the cost of mining roads, providing the mine and the federal government contribute an equal amount.

Mr. Berezowsky, a farmer and prospector, said mining companies in Saskatchewan are making "tremendous profits." He said Saskatchewan is not getting its fair share of revenues from mines and called for increased royalties.

There was no objection to the present five-per-cent mine royalty on the first $1,000,000 of production to enable a company to reclaim its capital investment. But the royalty should be raised to the present level of oil royalties—12½ per cent—when production exceeded $1,000,000 in value.

Charges for leases, now $1 an acre a year, should be raised to $5 an acre if a company had not started mining within five years and $10 if nothing was done within 10 years.

Mr. Berezowsky commended the government for its policy on northern development. However, if Manitoba permitted a catch of 25,000 pounds of sturgeon, so should Saskatchewan. Trapping and fishing still were the means of livelihood for northern residents.

Air, Sea Bases Considered For Isles In Canadian Arctic

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department is studying possible use of Canada's Arctic islands as air and sea bases, it was learned authoritatively Friday.

Little actual research into the problem has been carried out. Officials said Canada is at least 10 years behind the Soviet Union in Arctic research. The officials indicated they feel a start on basic research is important.

A recent Russian pamphlet issued by the Soviet Arctic Research Institute and entitled "New Soviet Researches, Explorations and Discoveries in the Central Arctic" has come into Canadian hands.

"It's a shocker," one authority declared. He was referring to the big strides Russia has made in Arctic research.

Russia started a systematic research of the central Arctic in the 1930s. As a comparison, the Arctic research section of Canada's defence department was not established until 1947. Up to then, the work was left to explorers, the Hudson's Bay Company and RCMP.

Last year, Russia established two permanent research stations on drift ice near the North Pole. They are equipped with planes, helicopters, tractors, trucks and mobile living quarters. Canada has never established a similar station that far north.

The Russian pamphlet says that in 1948 Russian scientists discovered a great submarine mountain range in the Arctic basin, previously believed to have been a massive water-filled depression.

The pamphlet officials here said there is no reason to doubt its contents—says this range, up to 10,000 feet high, extends from the new Siberian islands to the North Pole and beyond in the direction of Canada.

DIVIDED ARCTIC
American scientists in 1951 produced some evidence, officials here said, that the range does extend from the North Pole to Ellesmere Island, Canada's farthest north Arctic island.

The discovery is important because the undersea range actually divides the Arctic into two basins. The range determines the circulation of water masses and the distribution and drift of ice.

The Russians have also made intensive studies of weather and magnetic factors in the Arctic, important to navigation.

So far, Canada, with U.S. help, has conducted similar intensive research only in the Beaufort sea north of Alaska and the Yukon.

Mr. Woloshyn said the agriculture minister was "completely mistaken" in his assertion farmers are satisfied. The SFU would continue to press for revision of the act.

The farm union Thursday asked Premier Douglas to state his government's policy on margarine.

The SFU said it believes a statement by Health Minister T. J. Bentley calls for an explanation.

Mr. Bentley earlier this week said the government uses margarine in the Weyburn Mental Hospital because it is cheaper than butter. He said the government would not buy any of the surplus butter to be sold by the federal government at a reduced price.

136 Dozen Bottles Over 16 Miles

REGINA (CP)—A temperance supporter told the Saskatchewan legislature Friday that a friend had collected 136 dozen beer bottles on one side of a highway over a 16-mile stretch.

Robert Woolf (CCF—Turtleford) related the incident as an aside while taking part in the throne speech debate. He said he was pleased to see that liquor consumption declined in Saskatchewan last year.

"I know it will mean less revenue from liquor profits, but I am sure the loss will be offset by a decline in administration costs resulting from accident due to drinking," Mr. Woolf said.

He introduced the story about the beer bottles—they averaged a bottle every 50 feet—to show that considerable drinking is still going on in the province.

Curbs Lowered On Damp Grain

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian wheat board today eased restrictions on delivery of damp grain and on soft white spring wheat.

The board announced it will consider written applications from producers for permits to deliver damp grain in excess of quotas currently in effect at their delivery point. The board said such deliveries are dependent on space available and there is no guarantee when boxes can be provided to move the grain.

The board also declare an open quota on soft white spring wheat. Acreage of this grain was small last year.

Diefenbaker To Launch Bill To Provide Fine For Pollution

John G. Diefenbaker, Q.C., member of parliament for Prince Albert, said Saturday he has launched a bill before the House of Commons to make it a criminal offence for industrial plants or anyone else to pollute inter-provincial streams.

The proposed bill calls for an amendment to the Criminal Code, chapter 51. It reads:

"Every owner, lessee, or person operating any industrial plant, oil refinery, chemical works, sawmill or other plant or works, or any other person, who discharges or throws or allows to be discharged or thrown any noxious waste product, raw sewage, oil, sawdust, chemical or other matter or thing into a river, stream or other water any part of which is inter-provincial or which flows into any inter-provincial water, which has the effect of endangering the lives, safety, health or comfort of the public is guilty of:

1. An indictable offence and liable to a fine of $10,000 for a first offence and of $20,000 for a second offence, or

2. An offence punishable on summary conviction.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the reason the penalty provided for is so low for a summary conviction is that it will cover minor convictions. Where a river like the Saskatchewan is polluted, the prosecutor will proceed by indictment.

He said he was not sure when the bill will come up before the House since there were several others to be considered before this one can be introduced.

Industrial Board Planned Here

Representatives of business, labor, chambers of commerce and the city decided at a meeting this week to establish an industrial development board to promote and encourage general development in Prince Albert.

Another meeting will be held March 15 to set up the board. Representatives at this meeting will include two from Prince Albert and District Labor Council, CCL; two from the chamber of commerce; one from the junior chamber of commerce; a woman representative of the home and school clubs and two from the city.

Mayor D. G. Steuart, who was chairman of the last meeting, said the meeting discussed ways and means such a board can do to help obtain a trade and export assistance industry to come in, assist existing industries to expand, work in obtaining a new traffic bridge and a new railroad station.

$151,712 Loss Reported By Box Factory Here

A net loss of $151,712 was incurred by Saskatchewan Wood Enterprises (box factory) in Prince Albert during the fiscal year ending October 31, 1954, according to annual report tabled in the legislature.

The report attributed the loss to declining demand and prices for the factory's products, partly because of poor crop conditions which resulted in reduced purchasing power.

It also stated that the loss figure included a downward revaluation of inventories. While reduced sales necessitated a production cut-back, this division of Sask. Forest Products "felt bound to move slowly in the reduction of personnel and contractors."

TEEN TALK

Twirp Time At Collegiate

By SHIRLEY KING

PACI Correspondent For Herald

The "Twirp Twirl" presented by the House of Hurd brought a fair crowd of students to the collegiate auditorium Friday night.

"Twirp Time" (for the benefit of those who don't read the comics) is that time of the year when the woman is requested to pay. It is her duty to nab a man, take him to the dance, and finance the entire outing.

Females who couldn't muster enough courage to ask their "dream - boy" were left with alternative of "trapping" him at the dance.

NEW RAGE

The dance was a "free-for-all" with boys asking girls to dance the old-fashioned way and girls asking boys (the new rage).

The boys seemed to think turnabout was fair play. Two of them, watching the girls doing the buying at the canteen, said cynically, "It's about time."

Blue jeans, plaid shirts and sweaters were the main garb of the teenagers. Anyone wearing shoes was considered an outcast.

The auditorium was decorated with a shaggy green and white streamers stretching from the basket to the centre of the room.

Music was provided by the Sheffield orchestra. Masters of ceremonies were Graydon Gould and Doug Smith.

The "Twirp Twirl" was the last happy event before Easter Exams.

AD LIB — Apparently the collegiate students are a non-superstitious lot. Collegiate Day, the biggest shindig of the year is scheduled to go off on Friday, May 13.

Amendment Sought Of University Act

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan government will be asked to amend the University Act to give Regina College a four-year arts course.

G. H. Barr, a leading member of an organization promoting a degree course at the college, said Friday the requested amendment will authorize an advisory council and provide a sufficient portion of money appropriated from the provincial treasury for the University of Saskatchewan to be set aside to maintain the college as a university branch.

The college, affiliated with the university, now teaches up to the second-year arts level. The university has consistently refused to permit the college to teach to degree level.

Natural History Society Meets

A fascinating lecture on mushrooms was given by E. W. Brooman at a general meeting of the Prince Albert Natural History Society held in the Regional library Friday night.

Mr. Brooman told his audience that the study of mushrooms, a fungi, provided an endless variety of experience to the naturalist due to a comparative lack of detailed information on the subject and the endless varieties of mushrooms themselves.

For example, there are more than 1400 different varieties of mushrooms in the Ottawa area alone, both poisonous and non-poisonous, and more than 40 different varieties have been noted in the Prince Albert region.

As regards poisonous and non-poisonous types, it is wise to study mushrooms before picking them for eating. Mr. Brooman stated that there was no sure test which could with certainty mark the difference between poisonous and non-poisonous mushrooms.

He illustrated his talk with detailed drawings and colored slides shown by M. A. Welch.

A film titled "Natural History Wonders of the South" — most point in Canada, was also shown.

Chamber Urges Cuts In Taxes

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce has added its voice to the growing demand for a reduction in taxes. The chamber in its annual brief to the Federal Government advocates the elimination of the excise taxes on certain consumer goods, "which became imbedded in our fiscal structure during World War II", and a cut in income taxes.

Corporate taxation, the chamber believes, should be "progressively lowered even if the reductions could only be small." The brief shrewdly points out that with the prospect of even more competitive markets in which cost considerations will become paramount, the "magnitude of this tax burden on the average Canadian company cannot be over-emphasized."

The chamber's attitude of the personal income taxes will have a universal appeal. The chamber holds, and most Canadians will agree, that steeply-graded rates blunt incentive. It believes there should be a revision to put back the incentives "where they are needed."

The chamber contends that the very steepness of these income tax rates on earned income, shifts an inequitable share of taxpaying responsibility on the proprietors of many small businesses and those Canadians who, by their industry and effort, have risen to the middle income bracket.

The Canadian people will await with interest the government reaction to the chamber brief. Heretofore there has been little hope of tax cuts with the Government spending heavily for defence purposes and expending civilian services.

This year, Finance Minister Harris took a long look at the tax structure and came to the conclusion that the people of Canada were being heavily burdened. Many observers now believe that Mr. Harris may translate his feelings into action, and bring about relief for which the people have been waiting.

The chamber feels that Mr. Harris could meet his problem by taking a second look at defence expenditures, the heaviest item in the federal budget. While recognizing that defence requirements "must continue to remain the first priority," the chamber says that there should be a detailed public review of the defence program.

This does not imply that the chamber is advocating a slackening of essential defence efforts. But defence spending, it rightly contends, should get the same thorough scrutiny as that applied to ordinary expenditure. No fair-minded Canadian can disagree with this conclusion.

Cocktail Diplomacy Study

Among the many items to come under the scrutinizing gaze of Auditor General Watson Seller, in his report to Parliament is the high cost of Canadian diplomacy.

Mr. Seller's figures reveal that the cost of Canadian embassies and other diplomatic missions abroad during the fiscal year 1953-54, came to $6,284,886, "with the living allowances paid to ambassadors and other employees running almost as high as their salaries."

Not many Canadians are aware of the fact that this country's diplomats abroad pay no income tax on their salaries. Such being the case, the Auditor-General's example of a diplomat with tax-free salary $12,000, living allowances of $25,404, travelling expenses of $2,641 and removal expenses of $2,289, plus free accommodation, suggests that diplomacy really pays off.

Puzzling to many people is why such lavish allowances to meet "the higher cost of living abroad" are necessary. The Canadian dollar, being at a premium, should actually go farther today than it ever did. Living costs in many countries where Canada has diplomatic missions are much lower than at home. Since the Canadian taxpayer foots the bill for Ottawa's handsome diplomatic salaries and allowances, it would be useful for Parliament to scrutinize some of these outlays more carefully.

Slowdown Not Universal

That the business slow-down which is so apparent all over North America has not had its counterpart in many countries of Europe, will likely surprise many Canadians. This fact has been noted in a year-end review of conditions in the Canadian steel industry by H. G. Hilton, president of the Steel Company of Canada.

In 1954, as compared with 1953, steel production in Canada was down by 27 per cent. This was contrary to the experience of the United Kingdom, Japan, Australia, South Africa and Europe. Mr. Hilton suggested one factor in the paradox.

"To have boom conditions in Europe while in Canada the general tempo of business has slowed down," he stated, "offers a marked contrast. It is well to recall that responsible business analysts have drawn attention to the dangers of spiraling costs and prices, predicting that these must be followed by checks.

"Since the end of the war average hourly earnings in manufacturing have more than doubled while the volume of production has risen less than 25 per cent.

Hourly wages in Europe are less than half what they are here, and even in the United States they have advanced since 1945 by 77 per cent, much less than in Canada."

It is natural to think of every wage increase as a gain. But wages are an important part of the cost of industrial production, and must be regarded as such. Wage increases which are reflected in the cost of living or result in slackening of demand for goods cannot be looked upon as an unmissed blessing.

NEWFOUNDLANDERS PROSPER

'Sacrifice For Freedom' Becomes Economic Boon

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—What Prime Minister Churchill asked Newfoundlanders to accept with "sacrifices . . . for the cause we all have at heart" has become one of the province's economic pillars. For the rest of the world it's a lesson in international relations.

In 1941 United States bases were established in Newfoundland under 99-year leases. At the time they were criticized as the first impingement on sovereign rights, but accepted as "a sacrifice for freedom."

During the 14 years that have elapsed American military personnel and Newfoundland civilians worked and lived side by side without a public quarrel.

Instead of being regarded as military installations, the bases are looked upon as an important industry, giving steady employment to nearly 4,000 Canadians, two-thirds of them Newfoundlanders.

Last year alone, the Northeast Air Command, which controls all U.S. bases in Newfoundland, Labrador and Greenland, spent $30,578,296 in Canada, 90 per cent of it in Newfoundland.

It is not known how many American servicemen are in Newfoundland and officials decline to release figures. There were enough here last year, however, to donate $32,000 to charitable campaigns. Some $14,000 of this was raised by airman in St. John's.

On the sporting scene Americans are playing a prominent part. The biggest upset during their 14-year stay came last summer when a team of oarsmen from Pepperell base, near the capital, took the rowing championship from Newfoundland crews at the annual regatta day.

Although this was the first time the title ever left local oarsmen, St. John's crews were loud in their praise of the new champs, and the winning Americans publicly thanked regatta members for letting them compete.

American teams are also entered in hockey, baseball and basketball leagues.

Oriental Styles For Home In Ont.

ATIOKAN, Ont. (CP)—Craftsmanship of skilled Oriental artisans fills the rooms of a new home built in the new Dunbar Heights subdivision carved out of the bushland surrounding this northwestern Ontario town.

Joseph Moalem, a marine engineer who spent many years in the Orient, and his family shipped their household possessions to Atiokan from the Far East.

The house is filled with beautiful hand-carved furniture, wooden statues, Chinese rugs, ivory carvings, glazed pottery figures and hand-painted prints.

Among the valuable objects is an ivory piece carved into 10 balls, one inside the other. All were made out of one piece of ivory.

Mr. and Mrs. Moalem and their children Sophie, 18, and William, 15, spent three years in a Japanese concentration camp during the war.

While in the camp William bit off a large part of his tongue. He required immediate surgery but the Japanese said the operation was too difficult. A Canadian mission doctor in the camp operated successfully without sufficient anesthetic or operating conveniences.

Sophie is now taking a business course in Winnipeg. She has been tutored extensively in Russian and also speaks Cantonese.

At the community level co-operation between Americans and Newfoundlanders appears to be growing stronger over the years. Recently officers from the Harmon air base, on the province's west coast, got together with residents of nearby Stephenville to form the Stephenville community relations council.

The council was organized to foster local improvements, but Northeast Air Command headquarters says it will also show "the USAF is interested in the community, for the base is part of that community."

In St. John's, residents and U.S. military personnel have always co-operated in community work. Civic, church and service clubs are often peppered with American uniforms, and military clubs at the base are frequently addressed by Newfoundlanders. There are Americans attend each meeting of St. John's Rotary Club.

There has seldom been friction between military personnel and residents, and most servicemen say they like living in Newfoundland. Some have even stayed here after being discharged.

But Newfoundland is losing some of its girls. Last year 115 local girls married U.S. airmen, about 35 more than in 1953. Nearly all of these make their homes in the United States.

It's only a guess how much money the United States government has spent in Newfoundland since the bases were established. Last year's total of $30,578,296 was about $2,000,000 more than in 1953. In 1951, the expenditure was $14,000,000, nearly $5,000,000 more than was spent in 1950. No other figures are available.

The $17,267,400 earned by Canadian civilians at United States bases here last year, is more than half the total earned by workers of the pulp and paper industry, Newfoundland's largest.

INTERPRETIVE:

U.S. Forces For SEATO

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst
When the Manila pact for defence of Southeast Asia was drawn up it was admitted its provisions represented no very concrete barrier to Communist expansion and its value would ultimately depend on the firmness of intent which went into its development.

Under it there was and is to be no international striking force, in being, ready to meet aggression, as there is in Europe.

That's something the Asiatic members wanted. Next to that they would like to have American forces within their countries or just offshore. State Secretary Dulles has said no to that.

But he has gone even farther than most observers expected in clarifying American intent and specifying his military ability to back it up.

The United States, he said, will go to the assistance of any Allied country threatened with aggression.

Standing by, for that purpose, he said, is a great force of planes, men and ships, more powerful than the force deployed against Japan in the Second World War.

PARADE OF STRENGTH

Let anyone think this was just talk, he listed them:

A fleet of 400 warships including carriers manned by 300,000 men. Ground forces of five divisions—40,000 men.

Thirty squadrons of jet bombers and interceptors and other strategic air forces.

He listed maintenance of Chiang Kai-shek's 100,000 men and South Korea's 20 divisions as part of the American program.

The American force is highly mobile and ready for use wherever needed, under a policy of swift and sharp retaliation against aggression. The other countries can add their force to it, Dulles said, probably meaning as adjuncts, not as incorporated units.

India Boosts Steel Output

BOMBAY (Reuters)—India hopes to be producing 6,000,000 tons of steel a year in 1962. Her present steel production is 1,300,000 tons.

India proposes to achieve this target by increasing the production of the existing three plants and by building three more. Two of these will be state-owned. Ownership of the third is yet to be determined.

One of the new plants is to be established at Rourkela, in the state of Orissa, by the German combine of Krupp and Demag. It is expected to be completed by 1958 and will have an initial production capacity of 500,000 tons, which will be stepped up to 1,000,000 tons.

The second plant will be in the Bhilai region of Madhya Pradesh, in central India. Russia has promised to supply the plant and technical assistance under an agreement to this effect was signed in New Delhi between the two countries in the first week of February. The entire plant is to be in operation by 1960. It may eventually be expanded to a non-Communist country.

The agreement is the first of its kind between India and the Soviet Union and the biggest trade deal negotiated so far between the two countries. It is also the first major technical and economic aid for industrialization that the Soviet Union has extended to a non-Communist country.

This plant will have an initial capacity of 1,000,000 tons of ingots to be rolled into about 750,000 tons of rolled product. It may eventually be expanded to 1,000,000 tons of rolled products.

The plant and equipment to be supplied by the Soviet Union are to be paid for by India in instalments, the rate of interest on the amount outstanding each year being calculated at 2 1/2 per cent. Provision is made for the training of a sufficient number of Indian technicians both in India and the Soviet Union so that Indian personnel may man the plant to the maximum possible extent from the beginning.

The third plant will be constructed with British help. The government of India has accepted in principle an offer of assistance by the British Metalurgical Equipment Export Corporation and has asked the firm to send out a team of experts.

WINTER ALONG THE LITTLE RED

It's Never Been As Cold As In '94, Claims Pioneer

BY R. A. MILLAR

Prince Albert has been known for a long time as, next to Winnipeg, the coldest place in Canada. However, according to 78-year-old George Joyce, who has lived here since 1894, there never has been a winter anywhere as cold as the winter of 1893.

"There have been cold winters since then," said Mr. Joyce in an interview, "but nothing to match that one. Starting about mid-January, the cold wave drove temperatures down to the 40 below zero mark and they stayed there for six weeks."

It was during that time that the thermometer once dropped to 72 degrees below zero. There had been a heavy snow that winter as well and all roads leading to Prince Albert were blocked with drifts.

"There wasn't a train in here for six weeks and the storekeepers ran out of all tea and tobacco," Mr. Joyce continued.

It may have been cold and the heavy, thick bush on the hill and the sloughs on the flat must have looked pretty discouraging but there was work to be done and only months after arriving here in the summer of 1892, 14-year-old George Joyce went to work in the thick forests on the north side of the river.

"I never did go back to school again. I lived with my father, in a shack where the jail stables are now and worked out at a lot of different jobs," said Mr. Joyce. "I chopped a lot of wood over the river."

It was quite a change for a young boy just out of Toronto but in his own words "we got along alright."

The adventuresome pioneering spirit grew strong in the son as it was strong in the elder Joyce who had come to Prince Albert in the summer of 1891 from Toronto.

"My father, John Joyce, worked as a laborer out here. He was a veteran of 21 years with the British navy and, as a naval gunner, fought in the battle of the Crimea and was decorated twice for bravery," said Mr. Joyce.

THE MAIN DRAG
River street, was of course, the main street here during the "Gay Nineties" and this Prince Albert pioneer remembers the name of almost every store along that street.

From Second street west on River and continuing eastward, says Mr. Joyce, there was the F. C. Baker store, the Prince Albert Times, George Russell's butcher shop, a saloon, the strange little of Buffalo Hall, operated by J. F. Betts, Dick Green or Gwynne's liquor store ("the teams used to be hitched up outside there for hours"); Way and Ingram's jewelry store, where the price of bread was also located; J. O. Davis' general store; John Toogood store; Bob Fish, T. O. Davis and Frank Shea's general store.

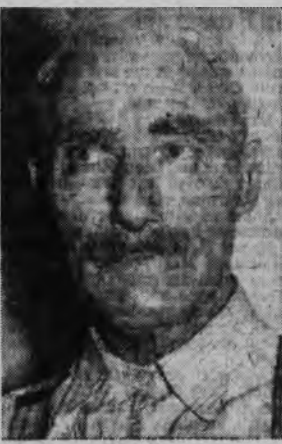

Further east along River street were located the T. J. Agnew hardware store, a tinsmith shop operated by William Kernaghan, a store owned by R. J. Goodfellow and McPhail's hardware store.

LETTER TO EDITOR
Mr. Joyce has particular reason to remember the Prince Albert Times for it was his father who wrote a hot and heavy letter to the editor in 1893 regarding the price of bread in Prince Albert.

"At that time bread was selling at three loaves for 25 cents and my father considered that expensive when compared with the price of flour. He figured that you could make 100 loaves of bread out of a 98-pound sack of flour and that when thought of that way, the price of bread should be lower."

Anyway, it wasn't long after the elder Joyce sounded off in the columns of The Times that the price of bread was lowered to four loaves for 25 cents. Editor and publisher of The Times during those years was John Mavety who, in the words of Mr. Joyce was "a real Irishman."

A plasterer and stone mason by trade, Mr. Joyce helped build many of Prince Albert's first business edifices. He did the stone work on the south half of Central school, built in 1899 and worked as a plasterer when the remainder was built in 1904. He recalls that G. W. Lacroix had the plastering contract for the school.

Mr. Joyce also worked on the city hall under Blaine Goodfellow who had the general contract for the job. This old-timer also worked for Sandy Marr another contractor of the early days who built many of the first buildings here.

"I helped with the plastering on most of the stores built along Central avenue," said Mr. Marr.

He also recalls the names of those persons who lived in the first houses built on the west hill along Twentieth street west. T. J. Agnew had a house in the neighborhood as did Harry Keenan, a Royal North West Mounted police veteran who served in the Yukon during the Klondike gold rush. The Keenans resided up to be where Queen Elizabeth school now stands.

Other early residents who lived on the hill were Bob Congdon, George Young, Joe Hurd, a contractor whose home on First Avenue and Twentieth street has been torn down, Dave Adams, a lawyer and Dr. Lestock Reid, an early Prince Albert physician.

SIR WILFRED LAURIER
Mr. Joyce has a particular memory of Sir Wilfred Laurier who spoke here in the court house in the summer of 1895. "It was pretty broken-down building then," commented Mr. Joyce, "and Laurier said that it looked as though the building was up on stilts and he thought that it should be repaired."

When Laurier came to power the next year, it wasn't long before the old court house was fixed up.

At the same meeting, Laurier had a few caustic remarks to make about Judge McGuire, a member of the Territories judiciary who had gained a fearsome reputation for his severity on the bench.

"Laurier talked about that and made some sarcastic remarks about Judge McGuire. It went on for quite a bit and finally the judge got up and walked out," said Mr. Joyce.

Having helped build Prince Albert and worked with many of its earliest citizens, it might be expected that George Joyce would retire. But not Mr. Joyce. Just a week ago Friday he completed a plastering job at the city hall as part of the repair work done following the fire.

Another illustration of the hardiness of the early pioneers and another big reason why these first citizens of Prince Albert, and of northern Saskatchewan, should be honored and lauded during the province's Golden Jubilee year of 1955.

Site Historic Of Scout Rally

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP)—A camp site used by General Isaac Brock in the War of 1812 will ring this summer with the shouts of 10,000 young invaders from many lands.

A 10-day gathering of Boy Scouts from 57 nations is to be opened here Aug. 18.

It will be the eighth such meeting, or jamboree as it is known among scouts, to be held since the movement was founded in Britain nearly 50 years ago and the first to be held on this continent.

Named "New Horizons," the jamboree will cover one square mile of rolling parkland with Fort George as a backdrop.

About 2,000 boys from Britain and Scandinavia have chartered a Norwegian ship to travel to the meet. Scouts from India will be away from home five months.

14 OR MORE
Canadian participants will number 3,500. They all will hold the first-class badge and be 14 years of age or more.

The fee for each scout will be $30. He will receive 31 meals, trips to Niagara Falls and other points, accident and sickness insurance and medical care during his stay.

The jamboree will be held in 10 camps and the boys will cook over open campfires. Each national group will bring its own camping equipment.

Provisions for the jamboree will include 20 tons of meat, 150,000 loaves of bread, 140,000 quarts of milk, 250 tons of potatoes, 40,000 pies, 45,000 hot dogs, 176,000 jars of jams and marmalade, 10,000 bottles of pickles and 400,000 pieces of cake.

Freedom Of Silence

The right to a reasonable amount of silence—certainly one of the basic freedoms—faces its greatest threat as the new year gets under way.

A Los Angeles advertising company is busy equipping juke boxes with recordings of advertising jingles. They will blare forth whenever the noise machines aren't shattering the air with brassy renditions of "Haji Baba", "Dim, Dim the lights and then piece so terrorizingly typical of the juke box demands on your ears, "I Want You All To Myself."

This new development, if it spread and doesn't cause a revolution, could put taverns, restaurants and other harbors of juke boxes out of business. Not that it can fail to bring uprisings over the nation. Commuters won their fight in several cities against radio commercials on buses and streetcars. Angry citizens forced Grand Central station in New York to give up selling access to their ears. Surely there will be lovers of freedom enough to down this latest threat from juke boxes. Fortune magazine foresees how the revolt could start: "After the 29th rendition of some commercial, a patron of the Shamrock Bar and Grill might throw a beer stein right through that chrome and neon facade." (Milwaukee Journal)

Wine Death

Ill luck is dogging the Walmsey wine, in which an English duke was drowned during the War of the Roses in the 15th century.

The grapes from which this famous beverage is made originated in Greece, but in modern times they grow—or rather, used to grow—chiefly on the Madeira and Canary islands. But two years ago a volcano erupted on Madeira, covering with lava and ashes the precious vineyards. And now grasshoppers have invaded the Canary islands, wreaking havoc among the vineyards where the red malmsey grapes grew best. Pests from the Sahara desert have also devastated the vineyards which produced white malmsey.

It was in a butt of the latter that George Plantagenet, duke of Clarence and brother of Richard II, was drowned on Feb. 17, 1478. He had chosen this "sweet end" when allowed to pick his mode of death by his brother, Edward IV, who suspected him of treason. (Pueblo, Madrid)

Who's Hungry?

Starvation is a rarity in Canada. The few recorded instances have been of persons lost in the wilderness, or hermits who chose to cut themselves off from the outside world. It is therefore somewhat surprising to see the word creeping into use, certainly, in a country where over-eating is a major medical problem, it is a perversion of the language to speak of "starvation conditions," or to accuse the Government, as one Vancouver newspaper did recently when discussing unemployment—"playing politics with starvation."

The fact is that 16 per cent of Canada's adult population is overweight—and probably as many more eat well beyond their requirements. The fact is that Canada has a superabundance of food. Granaries stocked with hundreds of millions of bushels of wheat, and warehouses crammed with millions of pounds of butter, hardly speak of starvation conditions. There never has been starvation (as distinct from want) in this country, which is due largely to ignorance, in this food-rich country. Nor would it ever be tolerated.

Worse, however, than the abuse of the words is its implied callousness toward those who really know what starvation means and feels like. Millions of people in Asia are actually, literally starving to death for lack of the minimum amount of food needed to maintain life. Millions more are dying of starvation. How many of the people who talk of starvation in a country where it doesn't exist ever give a thought to the countries where it does? (Globe and Mail)

Continued Business Upturn Expected By Manufacturers

By WALTER BRREDE, SR.
NEW YORK (AP) — Manufacturers of consumer and industrial goods set their sights this week on a continued upturn in American business.

Bold predictions of rising sales came from producers of such varied items as steel, automobiles, instant coffee, printing inks, prescription pills and atomic power equipment.

Lending at least some basis to forecasts of widening markets was a census bureau report on the expanding U.S. population. Four million babies were born in the United States last year. On Jan. 1, 1955, the population stood at an all-time high of 163,900,000.

Auto output was down. After smashing records for two weeks straight, several of the larger manufacturers let up a little. Biggest factor in the decline, Chevrolet throttled down its production after pulling ahead of its toughest competitor, Ford.

But steel production set a 15-month high and was expected to go still higher. Up to now, most of the demand had been supplied by Detroit. More recently, however, there's been a sizable flow of orders from railroads, oil and gas companies, farm equipment manufacturers and construction projects. And it's being freely predicted that steel operations—better than 89 per cent right now—will top 95 per cent in the not too distant future.

The railroads were counting on better times.

More freight is moving on the country's rail network. Loadings of MEDICINE HAT (CP) — Medicine Hat Tigers, underdogs in their best-of-seven Western Junior Hockey League semi-final with Regina Pats, will carry a two-game lead to Regina.

Tigers, after a shaky first period, got rolling to score six goals in the final two frames and humbled Pats 7-2 Friday night in the third game. Tigers won the first 4-0 and the second was tied 5-5.

Kiwanis Saturday Sermonette

"Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night." — Psalm 1:1-2.

Delight in meditation. These are two remarkable words as close neighbors. We are mostly too busy for the meditation, and so the delight is crowded out also. The absence of the meditation and the delight result in a want — a place to be filled — something to do. Hence the danger of a ready turn to the "walking" and the "standing" and the "sitting" of the preceding sentence. Human nature is a part of the nature which abhors a vacuum. Life must be filled with something.

From his observation of life the Psalmist has reached a considered conclusion. Blessed is the man who avoids the frothy things and gets his delight from fundamental things. Humility is born of knowledge, and knowledge is born of meditative experience.

Famous Trichologist Will Demonstrate How to Grow Thicker Hair . . . and Guarantees It!

Demonstration To Be Held Here

This new method of home treatment of saving and growing thicker hair will be demonstrated in Prince Albert, Sask., Wednesday ONLY, March 2nd. These private individual demonstrations will be held at the Marlboro Hotel, on Wednesday ONLY, March 2, 12 noon to 9:00 p.m.

HALIFAX, Feb. 14 — In an interview here today, William L. Keele, internationally famous trichologist and Director of the Keele Hair Experts, said: "There are 18 different scalp disorders that cause most men and women to lose hair. Using common sense, a person must realize no one lends or so-called cure-all could correct all the disorders," he explained.

GUARANTEED

"The Keele firm, recognizing that most people are skeptical of claims that hair can be grown on balding heads, offer a guarantee," Keele said.

Once a person avails himself to the Keele treatment his skepticism immediately disappears. To insure this, we offer this guarantee: "If you are not completely satisfied with your hair progress at the end of 30 days, your money will be refunded."

HOPELESS CASES DISCOURAGED

First the Trichologist is quick to tell hopeless cases that they cannot be helped. But the "hopeless" cases are few. Only if a man is completely shiny bald is he in this last category.

If there is fuzz, no matter how light, thin or colorless, the Keele Treatment can perform wonders.

A complete, private examination is given by a Trichologist to determine the condition of his scalp and cause for his hair trouble.

Stories of Famous Hymns

SWEET THE MOMENTS, RICH IN BLESSING
Sweet the moments, rich in blessing,
Which before the Cross I spend,
Life, and health, and peace possessing.
From the sinner's dying friend.

Here I rest, forever viewing
Me poured in streams of blood,
Precious drops, my soul bedewing,

While I see divine compassion
Beaming in His languid eye.

Lord, in ceaseless contemplation
Fix my thankful heart on Thee,
Till I taste Thy full salvation,
And Thine unveiled glory see.

By Horace B. Powell

The Cross of Christ has been a source of comfort to Christians in sorrow for more than nineteen centuries.

The Rev. Walter Shirley, pastor of Ireland, found solace there in a time of soul-testing tragedy and humiliation; it was out of this personal tribulation that his beautiful hymn of the Cross, "Sweet The Moments, Rich in Blessing," was born.

Mr. Shirley was serving at the time as rector of a small church at Loughree, Ireland. His brother, the Earl of Ferrars, a fellow of questionable character, quarreled one day with an aged servant and in a fit of rage killed the old man. He was arrested and, after months of wearying and mortifying waiting, was convicted and executed. The strain of his brother's trial and death told heavily on the

'Nations are Persons'

Second in a series of guest editorials presented by the Rotary Club of Prince Albert in commemoration of the Golden Anniversary of Rotary.

Suppose every wage earner in Prince Albert got a notice today that he or she was going to receive a bonus of one month's pay this year. Imagine the celebration! Yet, the idea is not so fantastic; for that is roughly the amount taken from everyone's income to fund the preparation for international conflict. That is one way of measuring our stake in the advancement of international understanding.

But there are even more striking measurements. If so much of our life's effort goes in tribute to the present lack of international understanding, much more is involved in the threat of complete breakdown. Atomic warfare, at super-sonic speeds, threatens our very lives and all we hold dear. Those who survived would exist in a world incredibly impoverished and disorganized. On the other hand, what great stores of energy would be released for the improvement and enjoyment of life if this doom that hangs over civilization were lifted.

These considerations should impress anyone with his or her personal stake in the advancement of international understanding. But what can he or she do about it?

To most of us the relations between nations lie far beyond our reach and control. The daily flood of news and interpretation about international affairs swirls over us, leaving us angry, fearful, suspicious and frustrated. As individuals, we cannot cope with nations. Indeed, we can hardly conceive of them as mere composites of stereotyped traits and emotions. It is to emphasize differences and the impossibility of understanding. The attempt to think of other countries merely as "nations" is a training in illusion and distrust.

Is there an alternative way of thinking about them?

We might begin by looking for the things nations have in common, instead of for the differences between them. The first thing — most obvious, yet so often obscured — is the fact that nations are peoples, made up of human beings like ourselves in their basic needs and purposes. A mother's love — a father's hope and pride — are very much alike in every nation. And no less universal among all nations is the people's stake in the prevention of war.

Thinking of nations as people suggests the possibility of understanding. Where so much of interest is common to the peoples of all nations, surely the solutions of their problems can be achieved harmoniously. Yet, though much time and study be devoted to informing ourselves about other nations as people, the opportunity for actual contribution to international understanding is still not apparent. Better informed, we may be less inclined to anger, fear and suspicion. But for active, personal influence on relations between nations, we are still frustrated.

Apparently, a further step in our thinking is necessary. Beyond the fact that nations are people lies the further realization that "persons" can also be described as "persons." Thinking of nations as assemblies of individuals may help to bring the problems of international understanding down to manageable proportions, for individual persons can get to know and influence each other.

That nations are persons is the approach of Rotary to its object of advancing international understanding, good will and peace. Just as in the local club men of different trades and professions find in personal acquaintance the inspiration to service, so among Rotarians of different countries personal acquaintance suggests ways in which agreement and co-operative action can be achieved.

There is a saying that "there are no foreigners in Rotary." Nor need there be among the nations of the world if international understanding is encouraged and fostered on the basis that nations are persons.

Pilotless Planes Tested By Navy

OTTAWA (CP) — The navy next week will start using radio-controlled pilotless planes for anti-aircraft training on the east coast.

Announced Friday No. 1 drone target unit will be formed March 1 at HMCS Shearwater, the naval air station at Dartmouth, N.S.

The small, pilotless planes are similar to those which used for target practice by the RCAF for the last few years.

The drone targets have a wing span of 12 feet and are powered by an 80-horsepower piston engine. They have a top speed of about 200 knots and an endurance of 1½ hours.

The mobile unit will provide targets for anti-aircraft practice by the east coast fleet.

The drone target unit will comprise an officer and 10 men and will be commanded by Lt.-Cmdr. M. H. E. Sandes of Dartmouth and Victoria.

Wales Seeks Home Rule

By ERNEST MARSH
LONDON (Reuters) — Labor members of Parliament issued a new call Friday for the establishment of a separate Parliament for Wales.

The bid for home rule was led by S. O. Davies, silver-haired MP from the Merthyr Tydfil area of South Wales. He published a private member's bill providing for the formation of a single-chamber Parliament which, he claimed, would give better government to the 2,500,000 Welsh people than the British Parliament.

Davies was backed by 10 other Labor MPs, including five from Scotland, where there thrives an even more vigorous nationalist movement than in Wales.

Home rule campaigns have simmered in Wales for many years, but official Labor party leaders believe they are not practicable.

Four years ago the most determined drive for a Welsh Parliament was launched by peppy Lady Megan Lloyd George, daughter of a former prime minister, Welsh-born David Lloyd George.

The movement she heads wants separate government for Wales because it feels that insufficient attention is paid to Welsh affairs in London, and that separate Welsh interests are not recognized in social and industrial policy. Members of the organization believe, too, that economic developments in Wales are fostered with English rather than Welsh interests in mind.

DOMESTIC AFFAIRS ONLY

Under the law proposed Friday by Davies, a single-chamber Parliament of 72 members called the Senate of Wales would be set up.

It would deal with Welsh "domestic affairs" and meet at first in Cardiff, the South Wales port.

The Senate's legislative powers, the bill says, would be similar to those now held by the Parliament of British Northern Ireland—that is, it would not handle foreign policy, defence and foreign trade.

Unless the British Parliament decided otherwise, the bill stipulated that Wales would continue to be represented by 36 members in the 625-member House of Commons.

The bill, which probably will be debated soon, provides that executive power in Wales would still be vested in Queen Elizabeth who would be represented there by a governor.

RED CROSS GAINS

REGINA (CP) — Last year was one of achievement for the Saskatchewan Red Cross, commissioner F. W. G. Miles said Thursday in an address to the organization's annual meeting here.

He said $329,257 was collected for Red Cross use. Thirty-three branches were organized, increasing membership to nearly 130,000.

Thank You, God

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Thank you, God, for my baby . . . and help me to be worthy of him. He is such a blessed little bit of humanity . . . so innocent . . . untouched by the many evils of the world.

There is so much to teach him, and You have chosen me to be his teacher. You have placed a soul in my clumsy hands, and I am humble before your gift.

How well I realize that in my wonderful task I need the help of the greatest Teacher . . . Your help. My constant prayer will be for guidance . . . so that I may teach my son what is right . . . so that I may set his tiny feet in the right direction on the path of life, and guide his dear little mind into the right channels.

And when the time comes, my son will go to Church . . . because the Church is Your home on earth, and there in Your presence all that I have tried to show him will have true meaning to him, and he will believe.

LET'S EAT

Breakfast Most Important Meal If You're Trying To Gain Pounds

Once upon a time, there was a thin girl who often grabbed a hasty bite of lunch so she could squeeze in a little shopping at the noon hour. And to eke out the money for a new bonnet or nylon sheers, she ate from the price side of the menu more than for taste appeal. Of course she didn't eat much breakfast either — she didn't have time, and besides she wasn't hungry in the mornings. And she lamented that it was impossible for her to gain an ounce!

Could that description fit you? Well, on that pattern, a thin girl hasn't a ghost of a chance of adding curves. If you tend to slight your meals, chances are your appetite is not very demanding. And poor appetite can result from a combination of factors — chronic overdoing, faulty food habits and irregularity of meal hours.

Let's start with the most important meal of the day — breakfast. The test of whether or not you eat enough breakfast is how you feel between 10 and 11 in the morning. On a good breakfast, you should be going strong until lunch time. No appetite for the first meal of the day is largely habit. Here's a promise . . . if you will get up just fifteen minutes earlier and eat a leisurely, relaxed breakfast, you can add curves. Tomorrow morning, have a hot cereal with milk and cream. In place of your usual two cups of coffee, have only one cup, plus a glass of milk. Milk furnishes protein, and it's surprising the energy carryover that comes from increasing the protein at breakfast.

At lunch, take advantage of the dishes offered. The day's specials often give the most for the money. Get away from the sandwich, pie and coffee routine. If you carry your lunch, vary the sandwich fillings, and even the bread . . . for appetite appeal. Increase the calories by using both butter and mayonnaise on the bread. Take along some mixed nuts, dates or figs, as well as a piece of juicy fruit and a molasses cookie. Have milk, if possible, as well as a hot beverage.

For the next thirty days, plan to use your whole lunch hour to eat lunch and relax afterwards . . . you'll look more rested and prettier. You might take a leisurely stroll in the fresh air. Or if a quiet church and lay your burdens down. Sit there relaxed for a brief quarter hour and you'll come away refreshed in spirit and calm in your mind.

If you have between meal pick-ups, they must be the type of food that is easily and quickly digested, milk. Skip the sweets, for they blunt appetite.

It is a definite help to rest before dinner if possible, even if only for a few minutes.

HOME CARE

There's A Right Technique For Completing Huge Laundry

By ELEANOR ROSS

It's still winter, but when the day is bright, and not too cold, it is wise to hang out the laundry to give it a drying and bleaching in the sun.

One friend has worked up a good technique to protect her hands from dampness and cold. First of all, she folds sheets and other pieces properly for quick hanging. The next thing, it to snap the clothespins in place along folds or edges so that the job can be accomplished in fewer operations and a minimum of minutes. A pair of warm cotton gloves inside rubber or plastic gloves will keep the fingers warm and nimble.

LAUNDRY AIDS

On the coldest wash days, you'll be glad if you've invested in a laundry or clothespin bag that slides easily along the line to save time and steps. Just a little forethought and the right equipment, and the whole chore is accomplished easily and quickly.

Have you been looking longingly at the new luxury nylon, the wispy 75 gauges, for instance? We were, and luckily received some for a gift. And although they look like nothing at all, we're getting good mileage out of these sheer beauties, finding them just as safely sudable as hose of sturdier weight.

First, we only wear them for special occasions, we handle them carefully and are gentle in fastening them to the hose supporters. We take extra precautions, too, when it comes to the suding which they, like all other hose, receive after each wearing.

Always use the mason jar technique for the very filmy nylons, so that they don't have to be handled at all while they're wet, except for hanging them to dry.

YOUR CHILD'S HEALTH

Quiet, Patient Tutor Assists Slow Child To Learn Studies

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

In writing personally to a parent about the child who is lagging at school, I have often urged that, even at great financial sacrifice, a quiet, patient person should be employed to help this child for a short period several times a week to bring up his arrears. For with more and more overcrowded schools, the need of such extra help is increasing all the time.

TEACHER WOULD HESITATE

If you employ a tutor for your child, you naturally may suppose his teacher would make the best one for him, and indeed she might. But, wisely, she would hesitate to serve in this capacity. She might feel that you would begrudge her the pay and think that she should give your child extra help free at school and that other parents might question why any of her pupils should need tutoring.

So, as a rule, it's better not to ask a teacher of your child to tutor him during the school term. She might, however, be glad to recommend as tutor another teacher in the same school.

ANOTHER PROBLEM

Another big human problem: when a teacher in a certain school discovers that one or several children in her class are, without her recommendation, being tutored, she may not like it, especially if the tutor is another teacher of the same school.

From Wisconsin comes this letter:

"I am tutoring a fourth grade girl in spelling three days a week at her mother's request. 'I have just finished reading the newspaper your article on spelling, and appreciate the fact that you approve of hiring a tutor if the parents do not feel themselves capable of helping their child themselves.

"This child's parents are very busy running a business, admit that they lack the 'know-how', and have hired me (a former teacher with a small child) to help Susan. I'm sure her teacher is a very fine one, and the mother has never criticized her to me, but the teacher felt hurt and offended when she learned I was hired for something she felt she had failed in.

A SPECIAL PROBLEM

"Since this wasn't the case at all, I would certainly appreciate seeing an article (by you!) explaining that such help does not indicate that the teachers aren't doing their very best. Any teacher welcomes an offer from a parent to help his child at home, but when hired, it seems to take on a different slant. I certainly don't want to rub a teacher the wrong way, as I am one myself and appreciate their problems."

As I wrote this teacher, she has already written the article herself and done it well.

Greek Orthodox Church Setting For Rados-Hnidek Wedding Rites

The Greek Orthodox Church, in Prince Albert was the setting for a pretty wedding when Helen Hnidek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hnidek of Albertville, became the bride of Mila Rados of Toronto.

Rev. S. Hrebenuik performed the ceremony. For her wedding the bride chose a gown of white lace and net over shimmering white slipper satin. The bolero was fashioned with a Peter Pan collar and long lily point sleeves and was charming over the bouffant styled skirt. Her finger tip veil of tulle illusion net was held in place by a coronet headpiece dotted with seed pearls and rhinestones and she carried a cascade bouquet of red and yellow roses.

ATTENDANTS

The maid of honor, Miss Ann Pazdernick was attired in pale green taffeta and net while the bridesmaid, Miss Ann Svoboda wore coral lace over taffeta. Both were in attractive ballerina length. Their flowers were pale pink roses. Groom's attendants were Mr. Victor Hnidek, brother of the bride and Mr. Walter Havlicek.

For her daughter's wedding and reception at home in Albertville, Mrs. Hnidek wore a grey wool frock with wine accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride's table was centred by a tiered wedding cake, and offset by bouquets of roses. Mrs. J. Podany presided at the tea urns and tearoom assistants were Mrs. W. Uglish, Miss Nina Uglish and a number of other friends.

TOAST TO BRIDE

Mr. William Hradecki proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom responded.

Telegrams of congratulation were received from parents and relatives of the groom in Czechoslovakia.

For a honeymoon trip to Miami, Florida, the bride and groom donned matching suits in black. The bride brightening her costume with the addition of a pink rose corsage. On returning they will take up residence in Toronto, Ontario.

Out of town guests included Mrs. O. Hawliczek, Mr. Victor Hawliczek, Mr. Walter Havlicek, all of Saskatoon and Mrs. K. Holatko, Grimsby, Ontario.

Forbidden Cigarettes Cause Mother-Daughter Controversy

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am the mother of a 15-year-old girl who has always been an obedient child. Recently I found an open pack of cigarettes in her purse. When I questioned her she said she had smoked only once, and that a friend had given her the pack to hold and she forgot to return it. Since I didn't believe what she told me, I lost my temper and called her a liar. I don't know if my scolding and punishment did her any good. Will you please tell me what to do?

P.Y.

DEAR P.Y.: It's a very large order, trying to tell a parent how to give a youngster depth-help in floundering through the adolescent years—when the parent seems to lack compassion and imagination, in evaluating the child's experience of temptation.

I believe it's no secret that most boys and girls in our country experiment with smoking sooner or later—usually not later than in high school in their mid-teens. Sensible parents are prepared to cope constructively with this probability so as to prevent the children from becoming liars and sneaks about it—a wise precaution. Unfortunately your sharp attack was no help to your daughter in building good character.

Guilty Child Lies By Reflex

Evidently it was understood between you and Jane (let's call her) that she wasn't to smoke; that you forbade it. Thus your discovery of an open pack of cigarettes in her purse was disconcerting to both, of course. And the reflex impulse of the frightened child (or childish immature character) is to try involuntarily to lie his way out of trouble—when on the defensive against angry authority.

So Jane's unconvincing story of how-come she had the cigarettes was pretty much what an enlightened adult would expect of a browbeaten juvenile facing an accusatory elder. It takes courage to tell truth that reflects unfavorably on oneself; and the habit of courageous truth-telling is established in children, by giving them faith that the truth will be hospitably received for its own sake. This kind of support should be consistently given a child by his family—his parents especially.

Also it takes strongly rooted self-esteem to bravely admit wrongdoing of any kind. And a child's self-esteem is made ready for life's storm-and-stress, by kindly respectful treatment of his spirit, despite his faultiness, in the family circle. Finally, a child who loves and respects his parents, for their firm fair rule and administrative insight into the needs and problems of youth, will do his best to measure up to their reasonable standards of profitable conduct. And good conduct is the only profitable conduct in the final analysis.

May Be Bessed Far Too Much

You say Jane always has been an obedient child. Perhaps she has been too much under orders at home, with too little leeway for developing some judgment and backbone of her own. With the result that other teenagers lead her by the nose—causing her to be weakly disobedient to you, because their influence is to the fore when your back is turned. Maybe that's why she took up smoking.

Re-open the subject with Jane, when you have time for a leisurely private talk. Apologize simply for losing your temper and calling her a liar. Then ask her to be frank about it, if she is smoking or wants to smoke. Tell her the health hazard of smoking is one thing, and the inclination to hide it is something else—and as between the two, sneaking is worse. Try to reach an honest, friendly meeting of minds, on a future policy. M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write to her in care of The Daily Herald.

COAT NEWS

A good travel ticket, a nice choice for town or country wear is this three-quarter length coat fashioned in off-white oatmeal tweed. It is very much of the mode which means that it makes last year's coat look obsolete—and that's just what fashion folk plan for. Straight yet boxy, it has just enough fullness to permit wearing it over a slim suit. Four curved patch pockets add to the line interest and there are four novelty white and gold buttons below the gracefully curved collar.

LACE CLOCHE

A lace hat usually has a garden party or important wedding guest air about it, but here's a bit of beautiful lace millinery that is prepared to fare forth with a silk suit for afternoon wear in town. Emfie makes it of white cotton lace and gives the most becoming, shallow cloche just the right dimensions to balance a softly tailored suit, this one in heavy black silk shantung with a black and white silk piping collar.

HONEY BLONDE WELSH GIRL PREFERS SPOON TO DIAMOND

TORONTO (CP)—Janet Jones, a 21-year-old five-foot honey blonde visitor from Wales, says she'd rather have a spoon than a diamond ring any day.

Miss Jones, from Abergynolwyn, Merionethshire, Wales, is in Toronto to charm prospective overseas travelers into visiting Wales. She travels the world as official hostess for Wales.

Miss Jones' spoon must be a wooden spoon of a special type, however.

"They are known as 'love spoons,'" she said.

Back in the 18th century a swain would carve a spoon and present it to the girl he wanted to marry. The more intricate the carving the greater the swain's affection.

If the young lady accepted, they were engaged.

Leather, Because of Natural Fibres Shelf Space Provides Foot-Cradling Support Under Window

If you're a young mother, you're undoubtedly very familiar with the morning-assemblies, either at the park, playground or the shopping centre—where everybody gets together to trade shop talk about the babies' sniffles, the cost of steak, and the difficulties of bringing up a husband.

The conversation may be bright and gay at such times—but the apparel isn't. Many mothers who look like a Paris fashion plate when they go out in the evening, resemble a heap of old clothes on their morning strolls.

CASUAL LOOK
The casual look is all the rage—but there are limits. And nowhere is this more evident than in the shoes that go walking out of many a front door.

From the point of view of both appearance and comfort, it's unwise to use discarded and ill-fitting shoes for your morning chores—either at home or outdoors. When you're working is the time that your feet need the best support you can give them. And with the tremendous variety of all-leather walking shoes available in the stores in all price ranges, including the very modest, every woman can be properly shod.

To cut down fatigue caused by housework chores, foot specialists recommend that you wear a pump or flatie with supple leather uppers and flexible leather soles. Leather, because of its natural fibres, provides soft foot-cradling support, but is still rugged enough to withstand the poundings your feet absorb in the normal course of a day's work—during which you cover some ten to twelve miles, believe it or not. These shoes should have a low or medium heel.

The word "walking shoe" tends to bring visions of ugly old-lady styles. But this isn't so anymore. Comfortable, good-looking shoes for working hours are now made in a wide variety of leathers—literally hundreds of colors and types of leathers—and in your favorite styles. Whether you prefer loafers, moccasins, platform shoes, or wedges, they're in your local shoe store.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When mothers go visiting with their infants, it is a wise precaution to take along one or two moisture-proof cellophane bags to hold wet diapers. A used cellophane food bag or bread wrapper that is not torn can fill the bill, too.

WIFE PRESERVERS

HERALD HOME OF THE WEEK

Living room, dining room, kitchen and extra lavatory on the first floor three bedrooms and bath up, all point to comfortable living. Note the entry with coat closet, the impressive fireplace, the spacious terrace for outdoor fun, and the efficient kitchen layout. Another important advantage is the length of the living area. For even greater spaciousness the dining area division could be eliminated. The exterior of brick and frame has eye appeal especially with the cantilevered second floor. Here is real economical comfort for the entire family—in the ageless, traditional style. Standard Builders' blueprints costing $8.75 a set may be obtained for this design no. 179. For further information write to: Building Editor, Daily Herald.

ENAMELLED STEEL TILES

QUESTION: About six years ago, our bathroom walls were covered with baked enamel steel tile. The tile is now rusting badly around the lavatory and water closet. Is there any way that they can be retouched or painted? Would it be possible to cover with plastic tile?

ANSWER: If the steel tiles hold tightly in place, plastic tile can be applied, providing the surfaces are clean and have been thoroughly roughened with coarse sandpaper. Touching up the worn spots will be difficult, but you could repaint the entire area with a good grade of enamel. All rust should be taken off by rubbing with steel wool and be given a couple of coats of enamel undercoater before you finish all of the walls.

RE-ROOFING
QUESTION: I plan to put on a new roof on my house and wonder if I can put the new shingles over the old ones or if I should remove them first I expect to use an asphalt shingle.

ANSWER: It is generally good practice to apply new shingles over the old, providing the old surface is comparatively level and there are no warped or misshapen shingles. If so, they could be removed and new ones put in their place, before re-roofing.

PUTTY CRACKS AND FALLS OUT
QUESTION: The putty on some of our windows has had to be replaced several times in the past seven years. Before re-putting the wood was given a good coat of linseed oil. But after a year or so, the putty cracks and falls out in chunks. Can you tell the cause of this and how can it be overcome?

ANSWER: There are 2 possible reasons for the failure—in your putty job. One is a poor quality putty and the other is failure to place putty along the inner angle of where the glass is to go. With no putty at this point, water from sweating windows could flow under the glass and in freezing weather cause the putty to loosen. After removing all the putty, take out the glass and place a small amount of putty against the angle that is to receive the glass. Press the glass into position, forcing some of the putty over the edge of the opening, then put in the metal mousing points and back-putty the glass. The addition of about one-fifth as much whitelead paste to ordinary putty will improve its holding quality.

FLAGSTONE WALK
QUESTION: We built a flagstone walk in front of our home. When it was half done we had to stop and did not return to continue the concrete work until the following day. Because of the drying period we find that the walk split where we left off and started. How can we repair this crack?

ANSWER: You will have to rake out the present mortar to a depth of a half-inch or so, then brush out all loose particles. Wet the inner surfaces with clear water, then pack the joint with one part portland cement and three parts clean, coarse sand. Keep the patch damp for several days to allow the cement to harden naturally. Try to purchase the sand and the cement from the same dealer so that the new mortar joint will not appear too light or too dark.

REPLACING WALLBOARD

QUESTION: I own a summer place at the seashore which has been overdone with salt water during two hurricanes. The original wallboard was damaged to the point where it should be replaced. I plan to re-panel with the new 8-ft. by 16-inch planks. Inasmuch as this new paneling may be subjected to water in some future storm, I would like to select a board which will not absorb water or at least will be highly resistant.

ANSWER: The panels that you are considering using, to the best of my knowledge, are made of a soft wood fiber composition and are absorbent. The only material I could suggest for your purpose comes in large wallboard sizes and is generally sold at most lumber yards as a tempered hard board.

VINYL PLASTIC FLOOR TILE
QUESTION: We are planning to lay vinyl plastic floor tile in the kitchen and dining room. At present the floor is covered with linoleum. Will we have to remove it or can we put the new tile over it?

ANSWER: The best procedure is to take up the old floor covering and put the tile down on the wood or concrete floor. When the linoleum is in good condition, satisfactory results have been obtained. In some cases, by removing all traces of wax from the linoleum, then laying the tile. Of course, the old floor covering must be smooth and level. Most of the manufacturers of plastic tile, publish pamphlets giving detailed instructions on the procedures of putting down their product. Your local dealer should be able to furnish such pamphlets.

KNOTTING PINE WALLS

QUESTION: I would like to know the best method to clean knotty pine walls. I would also like to know how to blend in the light spot left on the wall by a picture. I do not intend to replace the picture.

ANSWER: Household sections of hardware and department stores sell a wax-base liquid floor cleaner which is suitable for use on wood panel walls including knotty pine. The use of the steel wool will help take off the dirt. Whether or not the light colored area on the wall will blend with the clean wood paneling will depend a great deal on the amount of change in the color of varnish or shellac that took place over a period of time. If aging and not dirt had darkened the finish, I am afraid nothing will help except to refinish the walls.

Councils To Supervise Ports Demanded By Opposition

OTTAWA (CP) — Renewed opposition demands were made Friday for establishment of local advisory councils to help the National Harbours Board run Canada's eight national ports.

Harold Green (PC—Vancouver-Quadra), opposition expert on transportation matters, said in the Commons there is great need for such councils, especially in Vancouver. Present setup of a board in Ottawa, with local port managers responsible only to Ottawa, was not the best possible one.

He spoke on a resolution preparatory to the introduction of a government bill which would raise the number of board members to four from three.

Instead of providing for just an additional member to the board, Transport Minister Marler also should take one step further and provide for local advisory councils, Mr. Green said.

NOT BE PAID

They would include representatives of city councils, business and labor interests and would not be paid or hold executive authority. They would advise the board on needs of their ports.

By advising the board on needs of their ports, they would help it come to grips with local port problems.

Mr. Green said the demand for such councils has been made repeatedly and unsuccessfully in the Commons, adding:

"The desire seems to be to hold all the strings right here in Ottawa; there must be complete control here in Ottawa."

He also called for a west-coast representative on the National Harbours Board. Vancouver had more ships moving in and out of its harbor than any other port in Canada.

FOURTH WILL HELP

Mr. Marler said a fourth member will help the board keep in closer touch with problems and de-

Elections Act Study Okayed

OTTAWA (CP) — Committee study of suggested amendments to the Canada Elections Act, along with the whole broad question of redistribution, was approved Friday by the Commons.

The additional question of redistribution—changes in boundaries of electoral districts to keep parliamentary representation in line with population shifts—was given at the last minute to the standing committee of privileges and elections.

Secretary of State Pinard announced the government's decision that redistribution should be studied this year. The last redistribution of Commons seats was in 1953.

Mr. Pinard and External Affairs Minister Pearson move an amendment to include it in the terms of reference given the committee.

Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) welcomed the opportunity to study the Elections Act when an election is not "just around the corner."

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said Manitoba has all but decided to have provincial redistribution handled by an independent commission. He hoped this lead would commend itself to the federal government.

Social Credit Leader Low also supported the motion.

Wife Anxiously Awaits Word From Husband Stranded In North

OTTAWA (CP)—More than 24 hours of anxiety over whether her husband was alive or dead have ended for Mrs. James Houston. Now she waits eagerly for word of his rescue.

Her husband, head of the northern affairs department's handicrafts section, was one of seven aboard an RCMP Otter aircraft which came down in the north during a flight from Churchill, Man., to Ennadai Lake, N.W.T., 280 miles northwest.

The plane, missing since Tuesday, was sighted Thursday by RCAF searchers who reported it appeared to be undamaged and medially had visions of wreckage five of those aboard were seen moving around. The others are believed to have been sheltered in a tent pitched nearby.

"The worst moment was when I heard it had been sighted and nothing else," pretty, brunette Mrs. Houston said Friday. "I im-

Veteran Film Star Learns To Live And Act Like Moses

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Charlton Heston is not only playing Moses, he has to live like him.

Cecil B. DeMille, is making the Moses epic, "The 10 Commandments," with Heston in the title role. The film veteran has placed unusual restrictions on his star.

Reported Heston: "When I am on the set in my costume and makeup as Moses, I cannot sit down, read a newspaper, use the telephone or give interviews. I don't smoke anyway, so that is no problem."

"These are the same restrictions DeMille placed on H. B. Warner when he was playing Christ in 'The King of Kings.' Except that I believe Warner had to be veiled when he walked from the makeup department to the set."

DOUBLE PURPOSE

"DeMille has a twofold purpose: 1. To make others on the set get the illusion that I am Moses; 2. To make me feel the role. And by golly, it works. When I get the beard and robes on, I really feel like Moses."

Hours Reduced For Private Bills

OTTAWA (CP) — Reduction by half of the 11 hours allotted each day for consideration of private members' business was agreed to by the Commons Friday.

Members adopted without debate a motion by Prime Minister St. Laurent that starting next week government business, instead of private members' resolutions, be given precedence on the 5 1/2-hour Monday sittings.

There still is 5 1/2 hours each week allotted for private members' bills and resolutions—one hour each on Tuesdays and Fridays and the 3 1/2-hour Wednesday half-day sitting.

March is the month ALL CANADA GIVES to the RED CROSS

All over Canada, legions of volunteer canvassers will rally under the Red Cross banner. These men and women, recruited from all walks of life, will give freely of their time, their talents and their ability to help raise the money needed. Canada's newspapers and magazines, radio and television networks and other public-spirited services will add their shoulders to the wheel of this once-a-year, nation-wide drive. And every good Canadian, recognizing the priceless value of Red Cross work, will give generously and gratefully; that the work of mercy may be carried on without stint, without pause.

HOW MUCH SHOULD YOU GIVE?

That is a question only you can answer. With a widened scope of services, and with Canada's greatly increased population, the calls on Red Cross assistance multiply. The amount you give depends upon your earnings and upon your compassions. Look deep into your heart as you reach into your purse, then give till that inner voice says — "Well Done!"

Canadians Cruise To Victory

By ARCH MCKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
DORTMUND, Germany (CP)—Canada's determined Penitons Vs. flashing a deadly attack dominated by Bill Warwick's six-goal performance, fired almost 100 shots to crush the United States 12-1 in the opening round of the world hockey championships Friday night.

The relentless Canadians never gave the Americans a chance in their first step on the comeback trail, a hopeful augury for their crucial meeting today against highly-rated Czechoslovakia. Cheered on by more than 600 Canadian soldiers and their wives from nearby military establishments, Penitons fired 96 shots at American goalie Don Rigazio of Cambridge, Mass., during the 60 minutes, or one shot every 37½ seconds. Rigazio stopped 28 shots in the first period, 24 in the second and 32 in the third.

The one-sided defeat of what had been considered a strong United States team gave clear indication of Canadian intentions not to let the Russians again win the world title.

The Soviets defeated Finland 10-2 at Duesseldorf, but made a total of only 19 shots against a club that had been considered weaker than the Americans. Czechoslovakia shut out Switzerland 7-0 at Cologne and Sweden nipped Germany 5-4 at Krefeld in other first round games. Poland had a bye. The Canadians wasted little time as Bill Warwick started the scoring spree in the third minute of the first period. The American defence fell apart when the Canadians built the margin to 8-1 at the second intermission. The Canadians passed and skated well and back-checked strenuously.

The Canadians added four more goals in the final period. "We didn't give them a chance," said playing-coach Grant Warwick, who picked up four assists in the convincing victory. "We thought perhaps they might have been a little sharper than they were."

American goalie Al Yourkevicz of St. Paul, Minn., said: "This is the best club I've ever seen play in a world championship. I think if they keep their heads and play the way they played tonight they'll beat the Czechs tomorrow by a wide margin."

It was a clean, fast game with only two penalties, defenceman Kevin Conway, native of Van Kleek Hill, Ont., getting Canada's early in the first period for boarding. Jack Crockett of Melrose, Mass., was sent off in the second period for tripping.

About 6,000 non-Canadian rooters in Dortmund's 15,000-seat Westfalen Halle watched the game. They cheered the Canadians to the raffers as the pucks kept flashing into the American nets. The United States goal was scored by Dan McKinnon of Williams, Minn., early in the second period. It was a long, screened shot on which goalie Ivan McLellan of Timmins, Ont., didn't have much chance.

CLOSE RANGE
All Bill Warwick's goals came from close range. The helmeted three Warwick brothers, forming the Canadians' second forward line, accounted for eight of the 12 goals.

Versatile Jim McIntyre, like the Warwicks a native of Regina, scored two goals and assisted on another and Doug Kilburn of Lashburn, Sask., got a pair. Jim Fairburn of Regina and Hal Tarala of Laird, Sask., each scored once. W. B. (Baldy) George, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said he was "pretty pleased" at the result. "It was a clean game," he remarked.

Canadian soldiers mobbed the Penitons dressing room, laughing and shouting "go home Yanks" in good-humored fashion at the American team. The soldiers were from the Royal 22nd Regiment stationed at Wern. At the end of the game, Grant Warwick did his usual dippy-doodle act, ending it with a flourish and blowing a kiss to the crowd.

LITTLE RESEMBLANCE
The atmosphere during the game bore little resemblance to the proceedings at any big-time hockey contest in Canada. At first, game officials disallowed even to count assists, and it took some time before the announcers could be prevailed upon to name the scorers.

The speed of the Canadians was just too much for the Americans, who didn't send a team to the championships last year. The Canadians drilled his first goal into the nets after he worked in close on passes from brother Grant and Tarala.

The Americans played their best hockey in the first period.

Kilburn, assisted by Grant Warwick and Jack Macdonald of Edmonton, made a 2-0 on a pretty passing play near the goal and the Canadians, obviously anxious to pile up a big score, kept moving in.

RAGGED ATTACK
The attack seemed ragged at times as individual efforts petered out but the Canadians started to click with their power play and Fairburn, aided by McAvoy and Macdonald, scored from a shot behind the nets that glanced off in the American goalie's skate.

At the start of the second period the American coach protested because the ice had not been cleared and rink officials promised to fix things up in the third period. McIntyre, on a setup from Bernie Bathgate of Winnipeg continued the rout with a goal in the sixth minute of the period. Bill Warwick followed with his second goal assisted by brother Dick. McIntyre added another unassisted, Bill Warwick chalked up his No. 3 and defenceman Tarala made it 8-1. Grant Warwick assisted on the last two.

The third period was only a couple of minutes old when Kilburn converted from Conway. Bill Warwick followed with one of the most brilliant goals of the evening when he pulled the trigger on a picture combination play with his brothers. He added two more in the final minutes.

GAME EXCITING
By comparison with the Canadian United States game, the one between Russia and Finland was unexciting. The Finns' goalie, Vitali Unto, made only nine saves while the Russian netminder had only five. The period scores were: 2-2, 5-0, 3-0.

The Czechs played true to form against the Swiss, scoring once in the first period, twice in the second and four times in the final. Sweden broke a 3-3 tie in the third period with a pair of goals to edge the Germans. Period scores were 2-1, 1-2, 2-0.

Canada, Russia, Czechoslovakia and Sweden now are tied for first place. The 10-day round-robin tournament ends March 6, with Canada and Russia scheduled to meet the final day.

In today's second round, the Russians play Sweden at Dortmund, the United States meets Finland at Cologne. Germany clashes with Poland at Krefeld and Canada takes on the Czechs at Dortmund. Switzerland has a bye.

Competition Keen At School Spiel

By GERALD MARTIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
SANDY, N.S. (CP)—The skip of Saskatchewan's Canadian-champion schoolboy curlers said Friday his team encountered much stiffer competition in winning the 1955 title than they did in 1954.

His observation was in line with the views of coaches and players at the Dominion school bonspiel, which concluded here Thursday that the quality and enthusiasm of teenage curling across the country is on the upswing.

Bayne Secord, who skipped the victorious Saskatoon Technical Collegiate quartet to the title in a memorable match with Prince Edward Island, said "last year only one or two rinks were threats."

"This year, almost every rink had a title scare," he said. "I coached Quebec's top Mount Royal entry, said 'the kids have been living in a wonderland and the show here was a real eye-opener for me.'"

CAN'T HELP IT
Ken Watson of Winnipeg, chairman of the bonspiel committee said the brand of schoolboy curling has risen sharply because "with 60,000 school kids playing the game in every province, the number increasing every year, how could it help but improve?"

Ten rinks competed this year, two of them from Ontario. Newfoundland was not represented. Watson, who has watched schoolboy curling spread east from the western provinces during the last 10 years, said he expects Newfoundland will be competing shortly.

Bob Heartwell, coach of Ontario's Sarnia entry, marvelled at the fans—hundreds of them miners and steelworkers who had never seen a curling match before—who thronged the forum during the four days.

TRACK!
By GLENN GRADEEN
The general meeting held last Wednesday at the club house should be considered quite a success considering how cold it was. The turnout was good and quite a number of things were settled.

The Provincial ski meet will be held this year at Saskatoon on March 5 and 6. We are trying to get at least 15 persons to go down for this meet. If we can get 15 to go we can hire a private railway coach which would mean considerably lower rail fare down and back. In fact the fare in this way is so low that it would not pay to drive a car down. Anyone interested in going down contact "Sarge" Ballentine of myself. Do this right away so that the necessary arrangements can be made.

Sunday at noon has been named clean up time at the club house. All members who are able should come out and help with this very necessary chore. Donna Morphy very kindly volunteered to wash all the dishes and arrangements are to have hot coffee available on Sunday at the club house.

The club is planning to have an invitation ski meet this year on Sunday March 13. This meet will include cross country and jumping. This of course depends on the snow holding out. Any general thaw before this would rule out a meet. As it is, the snow conditions now are none too good, but any snow now, even a light fall would improve the skiing a lot.

It would be very much appreciated if every one going out to the ski club would co-operate and not slide, climb, or toboggan all over the jump hill. It took a lot of hard work to put this hill into safe jumping condition and it only takes a few thoughtless people a couple of minutes to ruin it.

Hawks, Rangers Battle To Draw

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers battled to a 2-2 deadlock in a National Hockey League contest at Chicago Stadium Friday night.

All of the game's scoring was confined to the first two periods. Allan Stanley banged a shot past Ranger goalie Gump Worsley midway through the opening period, only to have his effort nullified by "Conacher's" marker at the 18:23 mark of the stanza.

Red Sullivan's 16th goal of the season put Chicago back on top briefly as the second period opened. Less than two minutes later, Conacher notched his second score of the contest.

Chicago's standout once more was rookie goalie Hank Bassen. Though he had fewer stops to make than Worsley, his were more difficult.

Summary

DOWN OUR ALLEY

By GENE WORONCHUK
After the gruelling 16 game roll-off last weekend, Prince Albert's hopes for the Western Canada Championship were chosen. The names of the people and their scores have been published before so he won't state them again here, but we shall make some "side-line" observations.

First of all, four of the seven men have previously represented this city in a Western roll-off and five of the eight ladies have participated before. Therefore, the majority of the bowlers going will know just what to expect.

Comparing averages, we notice that this year's representatives have a lower combined average than those of previous years. However, most of the bowlers are more consistent than ever before. This is especially true of the men.

The bowlers going to Winnipeg will have a little over a month to brush up on their weak spots. The roll-off will be held in Winnipeg April 8 and 9.

This is likely the last time that a full representation will be going to a Western Canada Championship. It is believed that all provinces will be zoned after this year. This particular point will be discussed and decided after the roll-offs.

In conjunction with the qualifying rounds, the city's single championship were also run. Doreen Pitchford and Harry Ham were declared champions by virtue of their consistent scores over the 16 games which gave them the highest averages.

Starting this coming Tuesday, the local association will hold its annual tournament. The committee is quite busy these days getting ready for the five day event. The entries are coming in fairly well to date from the local bowlers and interest is picking up every day. As yet, we have not heard from the out-of-town bowlers but tournament manager, Art Swift, expects to hear from some of them today or tomorrow.

While on the subject of tournaments, a number of our bowlers travelled today to Saskatoon to participate in that journey. It is likely that we will get a number of Saskatoon bowlers here next week, since they seldom miss our tournament. We also expect that Melfort will be represented here.

After this week, the regular leagues will start on their last seven weeks of their schedules. That will be the last chance to gain a play-off spot for any of the teams that haven't already done so in the last three quarters. This should mean a real competitive finish for the season and there should be plenty of excitement for the remainder of regular scheduled play.

The weekend races are official trials for berths on the Canadian Olympic team, on which Bertrand and Tommy are almost assured of places. A large section of the Canadian entry is believed to have its eye more on the remaining Olympic positions than on the actual Canadian titles.

The west is to be represented by an eight-man delegation headed by Bill Stevens of Vancouver's Red Mountain Ski Club. Calgary has a lone entrant in Bill Laetner while other B.C. hopefuls are John Platt, Ken Dyson, Roy McConnell, Gordie Hill, Al Menzies and Jack Pendygras.

There are 17 Ontario entries, mostly from Ottawa and Port Arthur. Home province skiers make up the rest of the list. Among the top rated from the Ontario area are Bob Gilmour, Phil Beaulieu, Bernie Brazeau and Earl Elder.

Tommy Hot
Among the Canadians one name stands out as this country's hottest chance to retain the laurels. Andy Tommy, Jr., of Ottawa could well show his heels to the pack if all goes well.

Andre Bertrand from Quebec City's Laval University is another good prospect.

The weekend races are official trials for berths on the Canadian Olympic team, on which Bertrand and Tommy are almost assured of places. A large section of the Canadian entry is believed to have its eye more on the remaining Olympic positions than on the actual Canadian titles.</

Plans Prepared For TV Network

OTTAWA (CP) — Details of plans to set up a television network from coast to coast are expected to be announced shortly by the government, it was learned Thursday night.

Plans approved by the government after recommendations from the CBC are being kept secret until Revenue Minister McCann makes a formal announcement in the Commons. Dr. McCann reports to Parliament for the CBC.

Speculation is that the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada will build the western link from Toronto - Vancouver, while the CNR and CPR, jointly, build the Montreal-Halifax section.

Some estimates of construction costs run to $50,000,000. The system of towers capable of receiving and re-transmitting microwaves for TV would be leased by the CBC for about $2,500,000 annually, it is reported.

The microwave system also would be used by the companies building the towers for other commercial purposes.

The CBC has forecast that the present Quebec-Ontario TV network likely will be extended to Winnipeg by 1956 and to both coasts by 1958.

Dr. Bundesen Advises: Painful, Common Backache

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Probably all of you have had backaches, or at least will have them in the future. And because this ailment is so common, many of you simply neglect backaches unless they are extremely severe. Actually, you don't have to suffer, for seldom is there a case where doctors are unable to relieve the pain.

Perhaps the most usual cause of a backache is some disturbance of the connective tissues of your back, that is, the ligaments, which hold together the bones and also the supporting tissues of the muscles.

Sometimes a pain in your back may be brought on by an injury, a sudden strain, twisting or even by sneezing. If you get a more strenuous job, you might also develop a pain in the lower part of your back.

BAD POSTURE
Poor posture, or weak or broken arches, may throw your entire center of gravity so far off that you will get a backache as your back muscles strain to maintain your body's equilibrium.

In some instances, a backache may be due to infections, particularly those caused by viruses. In this case, the pain usually comes on suddenly, accompanied by a mild fever, and is spread over the lower part of your back.

About two weeks of rest in bed will usually relieve this condition.

Boards placed under your mattress will keep it from sagging and keep your back straight. Applying heat to the area by hot water bottles or heating pads will probably speed recovery and ease the pain.

Recently, it has been found that quick relief from pain may be obtained by injections of hydrocortisone directly into the affected area.

Hydrocortisone is a form of the well-known steroid, cortisone, which has been used in the treatment of arthritis.

A frequent complaint is lumbago, or pain in the lumbar muscles. Usually a special diet, massage and applications of heat will relieve this painful condition. I think your doctor will advise you to limit your diet to milk and cereals, or at least put you on a diet without meat until the symptoms are gone.

A lot of water will be good for you.

I'll tell you more about the causes of backaches and what to do for them in tomorrow's column.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
K. G.: Would an X-ray reveal an intestinal inflammation?

Answer: As a rule, X-ray examination will not reveal intestinal inflammation. However, it may show that the bowel is contracted, or that there are defects in the bowel wall which may be signs that infections are present.

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE

BY ESTRELLITA

FOR TOMORROW

Present trends complicate relationships and clear thinking, so look out for possible difficulties in contacts with both family and neighbors.

Don't expect too much from others where business matters are concerned, either Associates may let you down or interfere with your plans.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday the year ahead promises a great deal in the way of attainment, both in your personal and professional life. During the next six months you may have to stick more or less to routine schedules but, beginning in August, there is promise of unexpected opportunity and the possibility of making some unusually fine contacts which will help you to further your goals.

Romance and travel will be under beneficent aspects during the Fall and, during the same period, there should be a considerable improvement in your domestic status.

A child born on this day will be forthright, fair-minded and extremely conscientious in dealing with his fellowmen.

THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW
There may be some tension evident on Monday but maintain a cheerful and optimistic attitude nevertheless. And, where business matters are concerned, take the initiative and go after the things you want. Don't depend on others.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
If Monday is your birthday the next six months should be outstanding where material success is concerned. Your planetary vibrations indicate that you should reap an excellent financial harvest from the labors of the past, but your progress will depend, as it has in the past, on your own efforts. Do not anticipate miracles or look forward to any dramatic turn of events to turn the tide in your favor.

A child born on this day will be sensitive and romantically ardent but inclined to make promises which he cannot possibly fulfill.

Judicial Inquiry Demanded On Land For New Alta. Jail

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Progressive Conservative member of the Alberta legislature is demanding a judicial inquiry into government purchases of land for a new jail.

Paul Brecken (PC—Calgary) said land in the Chestermere lake region was put under 30-day option by an individual last June for $92 an acre. It was then sold to the government at $144 an acre as land for a proposed provincial jail near Calgary. He said the profit, including the land's crop, was estimated at more than $50,000.

New Brunswick
W. J. Gallant (L—Northumberland) broke up a two-week calm in the New Brunswick legislature when he said the liquor control board was a "refuge for defeated Tory candidates."

Saskatchewan
A bill to raise allowance for dependents of workmen killed in accidents received second reading in the Saskatchewan legislature.

The bill would raise the maximum allowance for widows to $75 a month from $65. A widow with one child would receive $100; with two children, $115 and an additional $10 a month for each succeeding child.

Prince Edward Island
A suggestion that schools should make a greater effort to instill a love of country in their students was made by E. P. Foley, Minister without portfolio in the Prince Edward Island legislature.

second round and jumped from two spades to three no trump, he had little left for the urging five-spade bid—but the slam was not an unreasonable venture.

West, holding considerable strength in South's obviously long club suit, might well have tried to protect that holding by leading in the ace and another trump, but he elected to open the top of his heart sequence. Declarer put up dummy's ace, cashed the club ace and ruffed a low club, then trumped a heart to lead and ruff another low club. All this, however, was fast shortening South in trumps, and since he could not afford to lead the low spade still in dummy—West would have won and given his partner a club ruff—South had to use another trump on a heart or diamond ruff for re-entry to his own hand. The upshot was that declarer inevitably lost control of the trump suit, and the contract became hopeless.

Now observe the difference if South had cashed both high clubs before ruffing a club (with the spade nine). He would then use one of his own trumps on a heart ruff, and would clear the club suit by ruffing another round with the spade king. Now he would lead the spade five, and nothing the defenders could do would bring them more than one trick, the ace of trumps.

The general analysis of this hand was that the contract could scarcely be made against a really bad break of clubs or trumps, and so there was no good reason for not cashing the ace and king of clubs immediately.

Second Man Sought On Semenick Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—A second man was sought Thursday by police to take action to solve the gangland-style shooting of Bill Semenick last Nov. 4.

He was taken on a ride to Stanley Park where he was shot and wounded as he fled from the car.

Following the arrest Tuesday of Joseph Marcoux, 29, in Toronto, police here announced a warrant has been issued for Eddie Sherban, who disappeared from Vancouver after the Semenick shooting.

Both Marcoux and Sherban were arrested the day after the shooting, held on minor traffic charges, and then released.

Semenick refused to name his assailants and was sentenced to prison for obstructing justice. He also faces a narcotics charge.

In court Thursday he told the magistrate: "I have no money for to hire counsel." He was remanded a week on a drug trafficking charge.

Northerners Foil Van Doos

Canadian Press Staff Writer
YELLOWKNIFE, N. W. T. (CP) — Soldier citizens of the north, trappers and woodsmen, today pit their cunning against the professional skill of the Royal 22nd Regiment.

In Canada's second sub-Arctic military exercise of the winter, some 120 members of the regiment — the famed Van Doos — are scheduled to "attack" this Northwest Territories district.

First duties in defence fall on two local militia units, whose members are wise to the ways of the north, in this opening of Exercise Bull Dog III.

The Van Doos, flown from their base at Quebec City, were ordered to capture the Yellowknife airport and nearby fuel dumps as well as ensuring supplies of food from the town.

Meanwhile, regular troops were being concentrated here, notably elements of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, for a parachute assault against the Van Doos.

This phase was expected to come Saturday, although the weather in Yellowknife, where temperatures of 40 degrees below zero are common, will be the deciding factor. Tough young paratroopers, garbed in strange-looking Arctic gear and each man equipped with snowshoes as well as weapons, will be flown to the attack by the RCAF which also provides a striking force.

WAIT FOR LANDING
Today, the air force waited for the landing of Van Doos to send Lancaster photo-reconnaissance planes to Yellowknife, gathering information for the friendly forces.

Mitchell bombers had orders to "knock out" the airport and fuel dump if necessary.

Directing the joint scheme is Maj. 8 Gen. Chris Vokes, general officer commanding, western command, with Air Commodore Sheldon W. Coleman as deputy director.

Gen. Vokes said at a briefing Thursday the paratroopers will not be dropped in winds exceeding 15 miles an hour or in temperatures more severe than 30 below.

Peacetime exercises do not call for undue risks, he said.

Church Supports Asia Immigrants

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — The Australian council of the World Council of Churches has decided to support bringing Asian migrants to Australia under a quota system.

The decision has aroused controversy in Australia because for years the leading trade unions and many other large associations have advocated a "white Australia" policy.

The church council at its annual meeting unanimously passed a resolution urging the Australian government to consider Asian migration under a quota system to strengthen friendship with Asian countries.

Bishop A. G. Moyes of Adelaide said it was not a Christian action to exclude people simply because they were not of the white race.

He discounted suggestions this could cause problems like those in the United States and South Africa.

Negroes in America had been taken there as slaves. In South Africa white people had gone there as armed invaders and were not in a small minority. The quota system would prevent that sort of thing happening in Australia.

Cree Takes To Air In North To Cut Costs Of Fur Hauls

WINNIPEG (CP)—Elijah Bradburn has returned to his northern fishing haunts to embark on a project that his fellow Indians hope will mean more money in their pockets.

Bradburn recently took delivery of a second-hand airplane which he plans to use to cut the high cost of air transportation for his people.

The 36-year-old Cree from Norway House, Man., 300 miles north of here on the shores of Lake Winnipeg, is the first treaty Indian in northern Manitoba to own a plane.

Elijah said in an interview he looks upon his plane as a necessity, not a luxury. With the aircraft he hopes to decrease air transportation costs—75 cents an air mile—which, he said is a staggering burden to Indian fishermen and trappers.

MADE PLANS

When the Bradburn family saw its fishing profits dwindle yearly due to the cost of flying to fishing grounds and freighting out the catch, it made plans to purchase a plane.

In the fall of 1953 Elijah came to Winnipeg, banked his money with the Indian affairs department and began his flying lessons.

He worked throughout the week and on weekends he flew until he had his licence.

But it wasn't until three weeks week trips by canoe and dog-sled to the far-flung trap lines and fishing camps.

Value Of Crops Cut 50 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP)—The farm value of Canada's 1954 weather-beaten wheat crop was estimated by the bureau of statistics today at $314,876,000, less than half the $782,521,000 value of the 1953 crop.

In a final estimate of 1954 crop production, the bureau placed the wheat crop at 298,909,000 bushels, slightly below the 298,913,000 estimate last November and less than half the near-record 613,962,000-bushel production in 1953.

The bureau estimated the total farm value of Canada's 1954 field crop production, including grains, vegetables, feed and sugar beets, at $1,137,670,000, down $527,000,000 from the 1953 preliminary estimate of $1,665,000,000 and the lowest value in recent years.

The 1954 oats production was placed at 306,793,000 bushels, down from the 315,979,000-bushel estimate last November, and about 100,000,000 bushels below the 1953 output of 406,960,000.

The final estimate of the 1954 barley crop was 175,509,000 bushels, down from the 176,216,000 estimate last November and the 1953 output of 262,065,000.

RYE ABOVE ESTIMATE

Rye production was placed at 14,176,000 bushels, slightly higher than the November estimate of 14,172,000, but still just half the 28,775,000 produced in 1953.

Other final 1954 production figures with 1953 output in brackets: Mixed grains 61,454,000 bushels ($2,168,000); shelled corn 22,339,000 ($2,054,000); buckwheat 2,168,000 ($2,210,000); dry peas 880,000 (1,210,000); dry beans 1,277,000 (1,219,500); potatoes 50,912,000 (67,002,000); flaxseed 11,238,000 (9,912,000); soybeans 4,933,000 (4,405,000); sugar beets 1,003,850 tons (900,339); field roots 440,000 tons (477,000); fodder corn 2,978,100 tons (3,564,000); tame hay 19,549,000 tons (19,550,000).

The bureau said its $1,137,670,000 estimate as the preliminary value of 1954 field crop production
